

Lionel Portell resigning

LIONEL PORTELL

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

For the first time in more than a decade, Granite City is nearly certain to have a new superintendent of streets in the near future.

Lionel Portell, the current street superintendent, will resign that post within the next few weeks to become the public works superintendent for St. Peters, Mo., a growing town of 15,000 persons. That post was vacated by the resignation of Jim Furlow in July and City Purchasing Agent Tim Moore has been serving as interim public works superintendent.

When Portell's resignation is officially submitted, probably at the city council's Dec. 15 meeting, it will be up to Mayor Paul Schuler to make an appointment to fill the vacancy until the next regular city election and then to seek the concurrence of the city council on the appointment.

The surprise announcement that

Portell, attempting at one time to gain control over the street superintendent by asking the voters of Granite City to make the street post, appointed by the mayor, rather than elected.

The voters rallied behind the popular Portell, launched a campaign to retain "the people's right to vote," and overwhelmingly rejected the proposal to make the post appointed.

Portell, 50, a longtime supporter of the Partney family, backed Daniel Partney for mayor last year. Portell also had been the topic of much intention, even when he was with some city officials Friday night.

Schuler told the Press-Record Saturday that he does not want to begin considering possible replacements for Portell until Portell's official resignation is submitted.

"It's a complete surprise," Mayor Schuler said, adding, "I think Lionel has tried to do a good job." He said the turn of events is "kind of interesting. I don't have any ideas."

The mayor's words hinted at the political differences which have existed between the two men for eight years. Schuler had been a frequent critic of Stix notoriety for innocent?

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Notoriety.

Webster defines it as "the quality or state of being notorious." Notorious is described as "generally known and talked of, especially, widely and unfavorably known."

The Stix & Co. brokerage collapse, subject of federal bankruptcy court deliberations today in St. Louis, has brought unwanted national notoriety to the Granite City-Madison-Pontoon Beach area.

The company and its senior vice president, Thomas R. Brimberry, without a doubt are "generally known and talked of" in the Quad-Cities this fall. But, it could be contended, he "asked for it" by his highly visible actions and by his behind-the-scenes statements to federal authorities.

Also being discussed publicly are the names of other persons, nearly all of whom say they did nothing wrong, and some of those persons say they did nothing at all, good or bad, to become involved in the complex case.

"Mrs. Pyrtle Kamadulski is thinking about suing someone because her name apparently has been used in some account that supposedly might have contained $300,000. She got a call about it a few days ago from the New York Stock Exchange, an individual told the Press-Record on Friday.

"She is an elderly woman who lives in Nashville, Ill. She is shocked about this because she knows nothing at all about the account, if there is one.

"She never did anything to create the account. She was totally unaware of it, and had never heard about it until she was called."

The individual said Mrs. Kamadulski

Nashville is the mother of Mrs. Har (Helen) Miller Sr. The Millers are parents of the former Janice Miller, Brimberry's wife.

Man, 90, dies in home fire

A 90-year-old Granite City man, William Criss, was burned to death in a fire Saturday morning which engulfed his home at 1735 Delmar Ave.

The wife of Donald Evans, 1737 Delmar Ave., owner of the building in which Mr. Criss resided, awakened her husband and told him the neighboring house apparently was on fire. Evans went immediately to Mr. Criss' home and found smoke and flames billowing from the windows. Evans broke the storm door and kicked open the front door to reach Mr. Criss, who was found on the floor, just inside the front door.

A passing motorist, Roy Strauser, 2217 Cleveland Blvd., saw the burning house and went into the El Gato Tavern on the corner of 18th Street and Delmar Avenue, where he called the police. The bartender, Salvador Ochoa, called the fire department.

Strauser went to the burning residence and assisted Evans in removing Mr. Criss from the house. Mr. Criss was pronounced dead at the scene at 8:40 a.m. Saturday by William Stuenkel, Madison County deputy coroner. He suffered extensive burns to his body, authorities said.

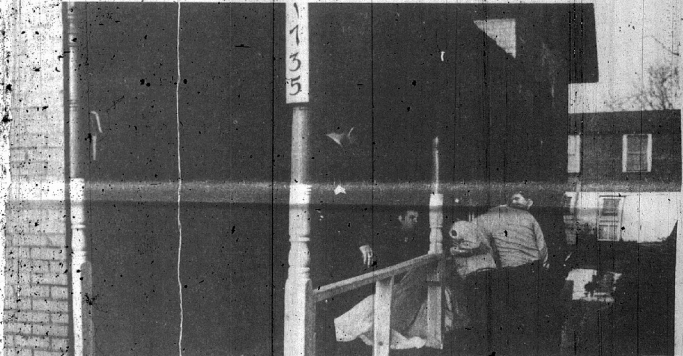

The fire department was at the scene for 40 minutes before the fire was extinguished. Damage to the house was tentatively set at $2,800 and $1,900 to the contents.

According to the niece of Mr. Criss, he usually awoke about 5 a.m. and enjoyed smoking a cigar or pipe. It is suspected he was sitting in an easy chair while smoking and fell asleep. The composition of the chair was the type that, if ignited, would cause dense smoke as it smoldered, according to a spokesman for the Granite City Fire Department.

Mr. Criss apparently woke up and tried to get out of the house, but was overcome by smoke and fumes at the front door, where he was found, Assistant Fire Chief George Smollett said. The Emergency Medical Technicians initially thought they could detect a faint pulse, but could not revive Mr. Criss and determined he must have died while attempting to exit the building.

Details relating to the funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

United Way goes 'over the top'

The Tri-Cities Area United Way community leaders who congregated at the final report meeting Friday did not disappoint the more than half a dozen agencies depending on their generosity.

Melvin Wilmmsmeyer, general campaign chairman, announced at the delayed victory meeting the group had reached 100.3 percent of 1981 drive goal, raising $697,040. "Walk a little taller. You've done an excellent job," Wilmmsmeyer told the volunteers Friday.

With the present economic conditions, he said contributors are aware that the demand likely will increase on the United Way agencies this winter.

"Maybe, in some cases, we've given until it hurts," Wilmmsmeyer told the crowd. Wilmmsmeyer said bleak economic prospects encouraged some firms which had not previously participated in the United Way drive to join in the campaign of community sharing.

"We've realized what winter can bring with employment down," the chairman said.

The Rev. Sheldon Culver of St. John's United Church of Christ gave the invocation, asking that the creativity and generous spirit of the community continue.

Master Sgt. Robert Ellison, baritone and soloist with the Scott Air Force Band, sang patriotic and spiritual songs before Wilmmsmeyer announced the drive had gone over the top.

Granite City Park District Commissioner Barry Loman, leader of Group A, accepted a Golden Award for the park district employees who reached 100 percent of their goal.

Loman's group of service clubs, organizations and individuals reached the highest percentage of all five groups with 107 percent of the 1981 campaign objective, for a total contribution of $6,556.

Industry, construction and transportation, Group E, made the largest group contribution of $531,467, for 100.5 percent of their goal.

Harley Davis, Group B (ending professions, private non-profit agencies and organizations) "thanked his crew" for contributing 101.5 percent of their goal, a $47,678 contribution.

Government employee contributions, under the direction of Frank McGinnis, had been slow in coming the beginning of the drive but exceeded their goal at the final report meeting. Group C donated 101.1 percent for $40,437.

The only group to finish under the 100-percent mark, Group D (business and commercial), headed by Bill Terrell, fell only three percentage points short of a perfect goal, but Terrell said his campaign drive will continue until 100 percent of his goal is donated or pledged.

The group raised $68,891, and will be helped out by a good will breakfast scheduled for Charlie's Restaurant and Lounge tomorrow morning.

Three reasons to attend the breakfast, said Terrell, are to help the United Way agencies, to help his group reach 100 percent of its goal, and to contribute to the fellowship in the community.

Charles Hester, owner of Charlie's, will host the over-the-top public breakfast from 6 to 10 a.m. tomorrow. Hester will supply breakfast and a "special surprise," and those eating there will be asked to make "free will donations" to the United Way.

The Rev. M.J. Quilligan gave the benediction to the final, and highly successful, report meeting.

Schuler backs new tax package

By GEORGE ANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Mayor Paul Schuler, Tuesday believes that his new tax proposals are "realistic" and he defends some, but staff of the city jobs council members are to consider eliminating in a special caucus scheduled for this Wednesday.

In an interview touching on the major points of his tax proposals and further on-going versus worker cuts, Schuler challenged the aldermen to "stand up and be counted" and give their approval to his proposed 4-percent sales tax, 5 percent telephone tax and an employment tax on employers, which is intended to capture non-resident worker salaries earned in Granite City.

"I think the proposals I made Tuesday are realistic proposals. Even more important, six months have been passed and can never be regained, because aldermen wouldn't decide on a means of getting out of the financial problems," Schuler said.

Although the mayor said that in view of layoffs and elimination of some city jobs by attrition, the "level of services as presented by the city is, in my opinion, the minimum we can sustain," he did not, however, close the door on further city employee cuts.

"If it can be shown that the level (of services) would not be further lowered, I would consider some more layoffs. I don't think it practical at this point. Although some aldermen are saying, 'let's lay off,' there have been no specific proposals to lay off anyone."

The mayor argued against some suggested cuts in various city departments aldermen had discussed at their financial meeting last Tuesday.

CITY HALL: Schuler said there could be a possibility of some city hall staff cuts after Joseph Miodovic, the new comptroller, gets his feet on the ground and has a good look at the situation. Schuler said the presence of the comptroller will mean a shift in duties for some city hall workers.

When the city computer begins to print monthly reports, "a lot of manhours will be saved" and there will be some changes in duties.

The mayor said his assistant, David Nolan, has "neglected his regular duties to concentrate on the financial conditions. He has been preparing the monthly reports and that takes a long time." Schuler said part of Nolan's work includes city ordinance updates.

Schuler said aldermen had asked at Tuesday's council meeting what had

New phone book promotes Illinois

Governor James R. Thompson was presented with the first copy of Illinois Bell Telephone's new telephone book last week, the cover of which incorporates the "Discover the Magnificent Miles of Illinois" logo.

"Our efforts to sell Illinois to out-of-staters as an ideal home for business and people cannot succeed until we have achieved a commitment from Illinoisans to the greatness of our state and their local communities," Thompson said.

"Projects such as the new Illinois Bell statewide directory cover are immensely helpful to us in obtaining high visibility for our promotional programs and remind each of us every day that Illinois is a great state."

Private sector

assistance, such as Illinois Bell is providing, and the efforts of the Illinois citizenry into a goodwill ambassador for the state," he said.

The governor was presented with the framed copy of the statewide telephone book cover by William Weiss, the new president of Illinois Bell, and John Trullinger, Illinois Bell vice-president.

The cover will be used in 88 communities and customized to each one. As an example, the Springfield cover will have the new state promotional logo, but also will have a picture of the public affairs center of Sangamon State University on it.

About six million copies of the standardized telephone book cover will be distributed throughout Illinois outside Chicago.

Coolidge and Prather Christmas Concert set

The combined bands of Coolidge and Prather Junior Highs will present a Christmas Concert on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. in the South High School auditorium.

The public is invited and admission is free. The 90-member combined band is under the direction of Mrs. Mary Ann Davis. Mrs. Cheryl Compton assists with the band at Coolidge.

The program for the concert includes March of the Golden Brass by John Cacavas, Concord Overture by Ralph Hergerman, Blue Tango by Leroy Anderson, Londonderry Air arranged by Harold Walters, Bells of the North by Leland Forsland, An Old-Fashioned Christmas by J. Oliverio, A Legend of Kings by Charles Richard Spangney, Home for the Holidays by R. Allen and A. Stillman and Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah," arranged by Clair Johnson.

False fees for insurance tests

It will cost more to take insurance agent and broker licensing tests beginning Jan. 1, 1982, because the National Testing Service (NTS), which administers the tests for the Department of Insurance, has increased its fees, said Director Philip R. O'Connor.

Licensing days are divided into morning and afternoon sessions and admitting applicants to each session will cost $25. Life and accident health insurance tests will be given in morning sessions, with fire and casualty insurance tests administered in the afternoon, explained O'Connor.

The fee charged to the Insurance Department to $23 for one session and $46 for two sessions, we have little choice but to collect a $25 fee for each session. The $25 fee the department has been charging obviously will not be adequate to sustain this program on a self-supporting basis," declared O'Connor.

The Insurance Department schedules two testing days per month, but both test days in June, 1981, were cancelled because money budgeted to administer them were exhausted, reported the Insurance Director.

The Department administrators about 14,000 examinations per year.

Breakfast tomorrow a United Way event

Free breakfast tomorrow on Charlie Hester? As you might expect, there is a catch.

Charlie, owner of Charlie's Restaurant, will invite to supply free food from 6 to 8 a.m. tomorrow. Those partaking of breakfast, however, will be asked to make a "free will" offering to the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

The event is a celebration of the United Way's going "over the top" in exceeding its goal for the year. All of the funds donated at the breakfast will be distributed to United Way agencies to help them support their budgets during the coming year.

According to Ed Reiske, acting executive director of United Way, "Almost everyone eats breakfast somewhere, so here is a chance to eat with a friendly group and an opportunity to help help the United Way agencies."

Charlie promises something special, comfort of the home, and a helping hand for a good cause. It is a chance for the good fellowship prior to the holiday season, an enjoyable breakfast, something extra for the day beyond, above all, a public spirited gesture on Charlie Hester's part.

RISE IN VA LOANS FOR MOBILE HOMES
In the 1981 fiscal year ended Sept. 30, the Veterans Administration hit an all-time high in mobile and manufactured home loan guarantees with a 13.4 percent increase over last year's total. The VA mobile home loan program guaranteed 9,389 loans, and noted that 38 percent of recent mobile home loans were for multi-section, double-wide homes at an average of $24,500 each.

To date, the VA has guaranteed 52,689 mobile home loans for a total value of $771 million. About 77 percent are for mobile homes placed in rental parks.

Television programs feature local lawyers

Beginning tomorrow evening at 7, South-Western Cable TV's regional community access channel "TV" will have a new show entitled, "The Tri-City Bar Association Presents."

As its name reveals, the show is being sponsored by the Tri-City Bar Association, an organization of attorneys who live or maintain their practices in the cities of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Collinsville. More particularly, the show is a product of the public relations committee of the Tri-City Bar Association, and is hosted by two local attorneys, John J. Hopkins, chairman of the public relations committee, and Dennis J. Orsey, vice-chairman.

ON THE AIR. Attorneys Dennis Orsey, left, and John Hopkins, right, are shown on the studio set during filming of a new cable television program explaining the activities of the local Bar association and the courts.

The shows are designed to be both educational and informative and will discuss various topics of the law. The premiere show will be aired at 7 p.m. tomorrow and will be repeated on Tuesday, Dec. 22. The shows will concern various topics which should be considered when consulting an attorney for the first time.

The second show, to air originally on Tuesday, Dec. 15 and be repeated on Tuesday, Dec. 22, will feature a guest Judge Edward Ferguson, chief associate judge of the Third Judicial Circuit Court, of Bond and Madison counties. The judge will discuss an overall view of the Madison County Judicial System.

Future shows will include as guests other members of the Madison County judiciary, who will be discussing various topics of the law, including an examination of a civil suit for money damages arising out of an accident, a discussion of family law concepts revolving around the Illinois Marriage and Dissolution of Marriage Act, a review of a criminal law case from both the prosecuting attorney's and defense attorney's stand points, and a discussion of the probate system and juvenile court system, as it exists in Madison County.

In addition to the television show, the Tri-City Bar Association has planned activities throughout the area. These include the establishment of regular group tours of the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville, a speakers bureau designed to provide guest lecturers on various topics of the law to any civic, religious or fraternal group, which may be interested; a senior citizens counseling service at the Granite City Township Building one day per week and an open line call-in radio show one weekend per month. All of these projects are being established with the cooperation and voluntary contribution of time by various members of the Tri-City Bar Association. These events are being directed toward the 25th anniversary of Law Day, to be celebrated in the United States on May 4, 1982. Additional information regarding any of the projects is available from Attorney John J. Hopkins, 1950 State St., or Attorney Dennis J. Orsey, 1600 Washington Ave., Alton.

Charles Schweizer elected president

Charles B. Schweizer of Glen Carbon, formerly of the Granite City Army Installation, was elected president of the Lewis and Clark Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution for 1982. Chapter membership is drawn from the Metro East area of southern Illinois.

Other new officers include Warren Burns, Belleville, vice president; Paul H. Conno, Fairview Heights, secretary; Earl W. Reynolds Sr., Marietta, treasurer; Herbert K. Kibben, Smithton, historian; Ronald Mordhorst, Belleville, registrar; and Rev. Leslie W. Wilson, Belleville, chaplain.

New members of the Board of Managers of the chapter are Albert J. Long, Salem, and Charles E. Worthen Jr., Belleville.

The purpose of the society is to perpetuate the memory of those who fought for the colonies during the American Revolution. Male descendants of 1619 are eligible for membership. Applications for membership are available through the chapter's officers, it was announced.

WELDING INSPECTOR COURSE IS OFFERED
A course to prepare students or those presently working as welding inspectors for American Welding Society inspector qualification and certification will be offered by Belleville Area College.

Welding Class 256 on structural steel work will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays for the first 12 weeks of the spring 1982 semester.

Hospital spending is up 17% in 1981

Total expenditures of St. Louis metropolitan area hospitals increased 17.3 percent for the nine-month period ending Sept. 30, 1981, over the same period in 1980, according to an analysis by the Hospital Association.

Hospitals held the increase in total expenditures to 6.9 percent, 10.6 percent and 5.3 percent, respectively.

A shared professional liability program combined with self-insurance programs continued to cause a decrease in percent in area-wide professional liability insurance expenditures.

Area hospitals experienced an increase in admissions of patients aged 65 and older. More than 40 percent of all inpatient days in the St. Louis area are attributable to this age group.

Patients in this age group require more intensive nursing care and stay in the hospital approximately four days longer than patients in younger age categories.

These factors combined with the reduction of new services due to changing technology and community demand caused area hospitals to experience an increase in the number of full-time equivalent personnel of 3.6 percent and in the cost per case of 19.1 percent.

This increase in personnel while maintaining competitive wage scales caused increases in salary expenditures of 18.9 percent. Growth of benefits also caused an increase in employee benefit expenditures.

"The hospitals' continued their commitment to voluntary cost containment efforts while maintaining high-quality care," spokesman summed up.

'Tis the season to catch a cold

He noted, "There is an average of three colds each year for each person in the U.S., or 600 million colds per year."

"In addition, the American people spend nearly $800 million a year purchasing the 35,000 to 50,000 cold and cold remedies sold over the counter."

"None of the over-the-counter cold medicines will prevent, cure or shorten the course of a common cold. The best any of them can do is make the cold sufferer more comfortable by relieving symptoms."

"Eight symptoms are usually associated with a cold, and they occur over a period of one to two weeks. They are sore throat, sneezing, runny nose, watery eyes, aches and pains, mild fever, nasal congestion and coughing."

"They generally occur in that order, but not always," Kempiners said, "for any symptom can occur at any time. Some symptoms may even be repeated during the progress of a cold."

He advised against taking over-the-counter drugs that relieve six or eight symptoms. "Taking medication that relieves more symptoms than you are having means you are taking drugs your body does not need," he said.

"Plain aspirin will help relieve body aches and pains and reduce fever, while a simple salt-water gargle will help relieve sore-throat pain."

"Bed rest and plenty of fluids, especially fruit juices, are still the best advice for cold sufferers."

Although there is usually no need to see a physician for just a cold, many serious illnesses begin with the same symptoms. If symptoms become more severe, instead of better, after a few days, see a doctor.

"There is a possibility of complications from a cold, especially among the elderly and the very young, because their disease-fighting ability may be low."

Although there is no practical way for most people to avoid catching a cold, Kempiners said, he listed three precautions that can be taken to lower the risk:

1. Keep up natural resistance through good diet and plenty of sleep and exercise.

2. Keep the humidity in your home up.

3. Turn the thermostat down. Overheating a home dries out the air, which in turn dries out the mucus membranes in nose and throat.

Several church windows broken

Several stained-glass windows at St. John Lutheran Church on St. Clair Avenue were broken sometime after 9 p.m. on Thursday, according to a report made by the Rev. Samuel Boda at 9:10 a.m. Friday.

Two 6 by 12-foot windows on the south side, three 6 by 12-foot and two 6 by 4-foot windows on the north side of the building were broken. Also, four small panes in a large art glass on the front of the church were shattered, the minister reported.

Supt. Harold E. Briggs will seek re-election

Madison County Regional Superintendent of Schools Harold E. "Gene" Briggs during the weekend announced his candidacy for re-election in 1982.

In his eight years as superintendent, the Nameoki Township resident has been widely recognized for operating an efficient and courteous office, backers of his candidacy assert.

Formerly a school principal in the Granite City district, he has expanded the services of the regional office and raised the minimum educational standards.

Among the new programs Supt. Briggs initiated are Educational Therapy Centers operated in Collinsville and Alton; to serve Madison County adolescent children who have emotional and behavioral problems.

A handbook for schools was developed in 1979 following a one-year study of disruptive student behavior.

A federally-funded County Teacher Center has operated for three years under his administrative guidance and fiscal management.

Other activities intended to benefit public and non-public schools included development of a drug abuse prevention curriculum and source guide, formation of the Madison County Arts Council, and sponsorship of a career education fair.

He and his wife, Elizabeth, a kindergarten teacher in the Granite City school system, are the parents of two sons.

FAKE STOCK COLLAPSE

Brimberry house sought

Harry O. Moline Jr., trustee for liquidation of the Six & Co. stock brokerage, will ask a federal court to do so.

Brimberry mansion here as a Six asset.

A virtually valued at $500,000 to $1,000,000, with an asking price said to be $800,000 to $1 million, the big home on Westmoreland Drive in Granite City, has been utilized by Brimberry to obtain second-mortgages financing legal services on behalf of his defense in the Six case.

Moline plans to ask within a week that a judge rule that money used to purchase the home was improperly obtained.

This would set up a legal fight for ownership between the Six bankruptcy asset fund and the Belleville law firm representing the former Six senior vice president.

Brimberry is out-of-town and cannot be contacted except by phone. No one has been charged with any crime in the Six collapse.

Meanwhile, the Missouri commissioner of securities has denied permission for John A. Virant Jr., a Six broker, to join some of the other Six officers and employees in transferring to the Bache Halsey securities firm.

A hearing will be held to determine whether Virant can transfer. His name was not on a list prepared by the U.S. attorney's office of persons not under investigation.

In another development, Madison County property taxes on the two local residences owned by Brimberry were delayed from the TRS-Escrow account in a Belleville bank.

The check for $4,658 was signed by Mrs. Beverly Smith, described as the former wife of Daniel Partner, a member of the County Board. She delivered it to the County Courthouse, the Press-Record was told.

The FORUM

Contents Harry Briggs is 'shadow dancing' with jobs.

To the Editor: Once again we see legal "shadow-dancing" in Nameoki Township. The facts in the case of a township supervisor drawing two salaries for himself and providing a third salary for his wife, all out of taxpayers' money.

The question of conflict of interest (township supervisor and trustee of fire district) was first introduced at the May 11 trustee meeting by Dick Kramer.

The meeting minutes state, "Supervisor Briggs stated that he was checking on this matter and if he was in conflict, he would resign as trustee of the fire district."

At the May 26 meeting, Helen Hawkins addressed Briggs on the same matter asking if he had looked into the matter. The upshot was, "A request is to be made to the state's attorney asking him to cooperate with the township in requesting the attorney general of Illinois to send the statute and not in opinion concerning the matter." Already, delaying tactics seemed to be in the making.

The May 26 letter sent by Township Attorney Irvin State Jr. to State's Attorney Don Weber did not ask for an opinion. Instead, it asked Weber to send the following question: "My question is this: does the statute in question require the resignation of one who has been appointed by a previous town board at a time when he was not a township official?"

"Ah ancillary question would be whether the two are incompatible. The township does not fund the fire protection district, nor contract with it. Would you be kind enough to submit to the attorney general a request for an answer to these questions?"

This was in May. When, by Sept. 14, no reply had been received from the attorney general's office, Mrs. Hawkins raised the question, again prompted by a request from Madison officials — of the possibility of a contract for fire services of the unincorporated areas of Nameoki Township.

At the same time, Mrs. Hawkins raised the issue of Briggs employing his wife. The township's General Assistance office — a position only the township supervisor can make an appointment to, and for which the supervisor also sets the salary.

All matters of hiring, other than the hiring of an attorney and hiring General Assistance personnel, become the duty of the trustees.

Setting salaries of these other employees also is the responsibility of the trustees. With such high employment in this area, here we have three jobs gobbled up by one family unit.

But, back to the legal question. The Sept. 24 reply from the attorney general's office to State's Attorney Weber states, "The use of the nature of your question, I do not believe that an official opinion of the attorney general will be necessary."

This followed by three paragraphs outlining and explaining the statute; the thrust of which in my opinion seems clear: — No. No. Mr. Briggs!"

Apparently, the only person who has looked into this was in the last paragraph. "This is not an official opinion of the attorney general."

But remember, the attorney general was not asked for an opinion.

Then enters the time element. The letter from Shawn Denny of the attorney general's office is dated Sept. 24. What happened to it between that date and the date its contents were reported in the Nov. 23 issue of the Press-Record is nearly two months later!

But, back to the legal question. The Sept. 24 reply from the attorney general's office to State's Attorney Weber states, "The use of the nature of your question, I do not believe that an official opinion of the attorney general will be necessary."

This followed by three paragraphs outlining and explaining the statute; the thrust of which in my opinion seems clear: — No. No. Mr. Briggs!"

Apparently, the only person who has looked into this was in the last paragraph. "This is not an official opinion of the attorney general."

But remember, the attorney general was not asked for an opinion.

Then enters the time element. The letter from Shawn Denny of the attorney

Stix notoriety

be in the account and (c) what actually can be found for crediting to that account.

Also revealing the various accounts are the court-appointed Stix liquidation trustee, Harry O. Moline Jr., and the bankruptcy judge, Robert E. Brauer. Moline arranged for the Stix accounts to be transferred to Bache Halsey Stuart Shields, Inc., aiding Stix clients in quickly determining their losses, if any, and in seeking reimbursement from the Securities Investor Protection Corp. The reimbursements are expected to total between $7 million and $13 million.

Judge Brauer will rule today whether the transfer can take place. If his decision is favorable, the actual process may begin on Friday.

But even if all customers of Stix are relieved of anxiety and financial loss, the impact of the case will continue to be felt by whoever is named as a subject of investigation, as well as those who are related to or acquainted with persons targeted in the investigation. One relative told the Press-Record that whoever planned and implemented some of the stock brokerage activity was either a nut or a genius, and I think he was a nut.

Mrs. Kamadolski is not the only relative or acquaintance whose name has cropped up in documents, comments, statements, allegations or financial records.

Officials stress that being named does not indicate actual involvement, but merely that someone was checked in particular name for an investment account, perhaps without consulting the other party.

Barron's magazine, which has been preparing a detailed study of the Stix collapse, says it found that some names, previously unmentioned in the investigation, apparently were used in documents through which substantial loans were made to Stix.

Ten other accounts, identified to the IRS by Brimberry, are being checked, as possible conduits through which money was taken out of Stix; some of the withdrawals were as large as $100,000 at a time, court statements allege.

Why large sums traveled in and out of Stix control—in a voluminous, sometimes "frenzied" financial flow—is one of the key questions that the federal investigation may answer.

The financial movements in both directions supposedly reflected clients' stock purchases and sales, but the actual transactions.

Also, it is believed, some of the accounts would have been entirely dormant except for the transactions that one or more Stix personnel "dreamed up" and recorded as having occurred.

One investigator thinks that the loans and withdrawals not only were a device to enrich someone, through looting customers' investments, but also could have achieved "laundering," the obscuring of the real source of funds.

The 60-year-old brokerage, not affiliated with the Stix, Baer & Fuller stores, was declared insolvent Nov. 9. H. Kenneth Brimberry, chief federal judge in St. Louis, appointed Moline that day on the recommendation of the Securities Investor Protection Corp. The FBI had seized Stix & Co. books and records Nov. 9, and a subsequent search by SEC examiners spotlighted $30 million in missing or non-existent securities that had been used as collateral for margin accounts.

That deficiency made Stix insolvent, the SEC asserted, and the commission also accused Stix of violating federal securities laws.

In addition to alleged law violations, unwise intermingling of different accounts and securities is said to have taken place. In taking federal action, the SEC said, Stix officials and regulatory agencies to keep track of actually what was happening at any given time. Although words like "fraud" and phrases like "counterfeit securities" have been bandied about, no person has been charged with a crime. Authorities say formal accusations are likely to be made late this year or early next year.

Stix ranked as the 173rd largest brokerage in the nation, with 113 employees in 10 offices in several states. The firm did much of its business in bonds, investments and securities.

The SEC said that of the money owed to Stix, $30 million was in less than a dozen accounts controlled by Brimberry.

Both as a clerk and later as an office of Stix, the free-spending Granite City man is in charge of many accounts. He lived extravagantly and was conspicuously generous to friends, attributing his affluence to inheritance and business successes.

The IRS says Brimberry had an annual income exceeding $1 million in some of the years from 1975 to 1980. Persons who knew Brimberry agree. They say he spent money in recent years as if he was a multi-millionaire and could not have created the impression he did without a real source of significant sums of money.

After a physical search of the Stix offices and a St. Louis bank, the SEC concluded last month that Stix wound up with a "negative net worth" of more than $14 million.

A Stix attorney who sought to place the responsibility on Brimberry shoulders told the federal court that it appears the securities are not bona fide. The IRS says Brimberry implicated himself and four other persons, all of whom deny any wrongdoing.

Brimberry's whereabouts are unknown but federal officials say he can be contacted through a Belleville attorney, Edward Magee.

Brimberry has obtained house mortgages totaling $300,000 to help pay for the services of Magee's law firm. A real estate firm is asking for "about a million dollars" from anyone who may want to buy his latest home, located on Westwood Drive.

In the hearing at which he reached the decision that Stix was insolvent, Judge Wangelin asked, "What if someone comes up with the money?"

Ronald Kane, SEC assistant regional administrator for enforcement, told the judge, "I think we're safe from that possibility."

While it may be safe to say that $100 million has gone down the drain and is unlikely to reappear, persons whose names have been brought into the investigation fear their public images are not safe.

Wishing to guard her reputation and underscore her complete innocence and non-involvement, Mrs. Kamadolski would like to sue someone, but she is not yet figured out who to sue.

The Muny announces 4 musicals

The Municipal Theatre Association of St. Louis has announced the titles of four of the most classic and beloved musicals for the American theatre, which will be staged at The Muny during the 1982 season.

The shows are: "The Sound of Music," perhaps the most popular of all the shows ever written, by the team of Rodgers and Hammerstein; the flamboyant smash-hit, "Hello, Dolly!"; the poignant, tender first time at The Muny, the Grammy and Tony Award winner, "The

"We expect the rest of the shows for the 1982 season to be just as exciting as the four just announced today," said Robert R. Hermann, Muny president. "We also anticipate an early and large demand for subscriptions next year, following the spectacular success of the past season, which had the highest attendance in almost a decade," he added.

There will be a slight increase in single-ticket prices for the 1982 season, but all subscribers will be offered the largest discounts ever in The Muny's history. Ticket savings will range from 10 percent in the box seats to 50 percent in the Terrace C, Single-ticket prices next summer will be: Terrace A through M, $13, and Terrace N, $7, and Terrace O, $4.

Rodgers' and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music" is the true story of the singing von Trapp family and its heroic escape from Austria prior to World War II. The story centers around Maria, a young postulant in an Austrian convent whose love of life and song leads her, Mother Superior to believe that she would be well suited as a governess for the aristocratic Captain von Trapp's seven fatherless children. Maria saves the job and wins the hearts of the children and, eventually, the love of their father. Joy teaching the joy of singing. This story contains the songs, "My Favorite Things," "Climb Every Mountain," "Do Re Mi," "Soliloquy," "So Long, Farewell" and the title song. The book is by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse and was adapted from Maria Augusta von Trapp's book, "The Trapp Family Singers." This popular musical in 1964 earned the show over 10 million dollars for three straight weeks.

"Hello Dolly!" which opened on Broadway in 1964, won 10 Tony Awards and became one of the most successful musicals of all time. It is the story of a successful widow, Dolly Levi, who is gaged in the marriage brokerage business and is attracted to the pursuit of wealth and money as well as marriage. She also tries, by means available, to get her most eligible son, Horace Vandergelder, to herself.

"Fiddler on the Roof" is the moving tale of an impoverished Jewish dairyman named Tevye in a peasant town in tsarist Russia. He is a much-beloved man whose life has always been governed by the age-old traditions of his people. Traditions which he has never questioned. But the old order begins to break down. His daughters defy his marriage choices for men and the tsar orders Jews to leave their homeland. Tevye, a man of hope, tries to understand these changes through his daily conversations with God. The show ends on a hopeful note as the family decides to emigrate to America and pursue a life free of persecution.

The book by Joseph Stein, is based on the Yiddish Tevye story by Sholem Aleichem. The tender and sentimental music by Jerry Book and Sheldon Harnick, includes the songs, "Tradition," "Matchmaker," "If I Were a Rich Man," "Di Yiddishe Meise," "Sunrise, Sunset."

"The Wiz" is a magical version of the original Oz books, by L. Frank Baum, and the 1939 movie classic, "The Wizard of Oz." The Tony and Grammy Award-winning score by Jerry Herman follows Dolly's escapades with such memorable songs as "Put on Your Sunday Clothes," "Before the Parade Passes By," "It Takes a Woman," "Elegance," "Motherhood" and the rousing show-stopper, "Hello, Dolly!"

Portell resigning

speculation this year as possibly the best candidate for mayor in 3½ years. That possibility seems to have been ruled out, as Portell said he plans to move his family to St. Peters, if he passes the six-month probationary period on his new job.

Portell told the Press-Record Saturday afternoon that he never wanted to be mayor. "If my goal in life had been for mayor, I would have run the last time (April, 1979), but that wasn't the job I wanted. I never had aspired for that job. I have always liked to do this type of physical work in the field."

"I have been approached many times by friends (to run for mayor), but my answer has always been the same. It's not what I wanted," he stated.

Portell said his appointment to the post in St. Peters seems assured, adding, "For all intents and purposes, I am going to take it." He noted, however, that he has not yet signed a contract with St. Peters officials and will have to serve a six-month probationary period before his selection is permanent.

The precise timing of his resignation from his Granite City post also is uncertain. "I told the people at St. Peters I would not just walk out on Granite City flat. However, I have been conditioning my foremen and staff to take care of things, which they are very competent to do."

"I haven't taken any time for vacation and have some coming, so I probably will take it," Portell said. He noted he will be "in and out" of the Granite City Street Department this week and will spend some time in St. Peters, "to study the situation."

He described St. Peters as "a very progressive city with growing pains. They seem to have their feet on the ground and have the staff and facilities to do the job."

He was not as kind in his assessment of Granite City under the current administration. "It is not now going to go anywhere. There are problems which should be taken care of and aren't going to be. You're always playing catch-up."

"Right now, we're in kind of a no-growth period," Portell contended. "Asked if being on the 'outs' with the mayor and dominant faction in city government played a role in his decision to change jobs, Portell commented, "If so, it was a very small part."

I haven't been in good graces with the current administration for eight years. "I could probably stay another term but I don't want to be at 55. That is available to me, but this (new) job really looks like something I want to do. It will make me more active; more responsible. I have been looking for some time. I believe I have the skills and background to really help these people in St. Peters," he concluded.

Portell has been with the Granite City Street Department for 33½ years, starting as a worker and serving as a foreman before being elevated to superintendent in 1971. He was a member of Laborers Local 674.

He was born in Cadet, Mo., and attended schools there before moving to St. Louis. He also attended Southern Illinois University management classes and Illinois Credit Union management classes, as well as studying business management at Granite City Steel.

He has served as president of Granite City Employees' Credit Union for many years.

His wife, Rosalee (Smith) Portell, reside at 2840 Midway Ave. They have the parents of two daughters, Deborah and Martha, and two sons, Michael and Dale.

Asked if he intends to recommend replacement for his job, Portell said he would like to have some input into his considerations, but I don't know anybody wants any input. If asked, he would have some opinions on his recommendations.

"I don't want to see this department going down the drain. It is too important. Maybe someone can see the points made to the city council better than I have," he added.

Portell had kind words for the Press-Record's coverage of his term as mayor. "The paper has always been pretty fair and I appreciate the fairness," he stated.

He said it is going to be difficult to move from Granite City after 34 years here. "We have so many acquaintances here who are going to be hard to leave, but it was a family decision," he concluded.

Goldenrod show tomorrow for Pontoon Lions Club

The Pontoon Beach Lions Club's Board met last week to discuss plans for the annual Christmas party of the members on the Goldenrod Showboat, Tuesday.

CAR WASH THEFT Leonard Prothro Jr., 21, of 806 Bissell St., Madison, was arrested at 10:05 a.m. Wednesday at G&G Car Wash, 1435 Sixth St., Madison, when he was allegedly found holding a tire tool and damaged coin box at the site by Madison Chief of Police Donald Bridick.

According to official reports, Prothro had taken 79 cents from the box. He was charged with theft and criminal damage to property and later was transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Tom George, 1703 Elizabeth St., Madison, owner of the car wash, said damage included $200 to the coin box and $250 to an electric motor.

Children's Home in Alton. At the request of Lion Den 11, McBride of the Edwardsville Lions Club, who was the guest speaker at the November meeting, the club voted to send a check to the Radio Information Service for Blind and Physical Handicapped. The club also voted to spend $100 for toys for the Christmas baskets in Pontoon Beach.

It was reported that the Christmas tree has been decorated and ready for voting in the Feder-Huber tree contest. Lioness Debbie Durbin reported on the upcoming fund-raiser, a chili supper to be held at the Lions Den 11 on Saturday Jan. 16. It will be the first fund-raiser in the new year.

Five new members have been voted into the club and their spouses are to notify them of their acceptance, the members decided.

SIMAPC provided continuing input and assistance to staff and advisory groups of the St. Louis Metro Area Rail Gateway Enterprise, which hopes to revamp railroad yards to speed freight cars through the metropolitan area.

Staff members attended and participated in meetings of the Metro East Chambers of Commerce Association, Target 2000 and similar organizations.

Economic development seminars were planned and conducted in conjunction with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Illinois Power Co. was assisted in holding economic growth seminars in Sparta, Steelville and Centralia.

SIMAPC maintained a "manufacturing opportunities" service which supplied more than 150 leads for export sales to 27 area business firms.

"Linkages in Progress" was one of ten national demonstration projects funded by the federal government to develop models for collaboration between local education and CEPA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) training systems to increase employability and long-term job opportunities for young people.

During 1980-81, SIMAPC's information center was strengthened in several ways.

The arrival of preliminary data from the 1980 census of population and housing, along with initiation of the commission's affiliate status with the Illinois Data Center, has resulted in an efficient method of supplying data to local officials.

Three commission newsletters were mailed to 1,500 local readers. A preliminary analysis of 1970-80 development trends was prepared.

Over 100 new publications were added to the bulging SIMAPC library. And more than 100 requests for information were answered.

Long-awaited construction of Interstate 255 through southwestern Illinois, with the objective of completing the I-270 circumferential route around the entire St. Louis area, resulted in the anticipation of development of highway-oriented facilities at new interchanges along the highway route.

The commission, in cooperation with local officials and the Gateway Council, undertook a study of the development potential at six interchanges from I-55 south to Route 143. The document that resulted can be used by developers and local governments to encourage positive development.

And SIMAPC participated with Gateway in analyzing more than 20 railroad crossings in Granite City, Madison, Venice and East St. Louis. The intent of this study was to identify ways of alleviating or lessening the conflict between railway and highway traffic these crossings. Officials say it could have a profound effect on the Quad City area in future years.

Speaker to address RIF reading program

The Emerson School Title I Parent Advisory Council will have its second meeting on Friday, Dec. 11, at 9 a.m. in the school gymnasium.

Discussed will be the importance of children's books in the home, the importance of reading to young children, and the importance of listening as children read aloud and share stories that they enjoy.

Joseph Haefner, Title I reading teacher, will give a full explanation of the Emerson RIF (Reading is Fun) program. He will use slides and posters and will have a full display of sample books.

Questions concerning the future of RIF and its funding in 1982-83 will be answered. For parents, it is important to know ways in which they can help their children enjoy reading and become better students and eventually, literate adults.

Haefner has invited all parents to come to the informative meeting. Coffee and donuts will be served.

DRIVER ARRESTED ON BENTON STREET
Steve Waltemate, 20, of 212 Wilson Park Lane, was arrested and charged with reckless driving, resisting arrest and illegal transportation of alcohol at 7:28 a.m. Saturday at 26th Street and Benton Avenue.

He allegedly was driving in a reckless manner when making a right turn onto Benton Street, almost struck a parked car.

According to official reports, police tried to stop his vehicle and he allegedly resisted at a high rate of speed and violated a stop sign at 26th and Benton.

When stopped at the corner of 26th and Benton, officers said there was an open bottle of beer on the floor and he, allegedly became abusive and resisted arrest, refusing to get out of his automobile. Waltemate was released at 10 a.m. Saturday on $500 cash bond.

to the grade ordinance and license ordinance, both in hours and hours of research, and of course, sometimes I hear them think they (ordinances) are out of the blue.

FIRE DEPARTMENT: "I think I will have responsible layoffs in the fire department, as long as it can provide essential services—snow and ice removal," and the absence of sanitary sewer lift ordinances, including Aldermen Bowler of the Seventh Ward and Mayor Warfield of the City.

Had questioned the need for street department staff at the special financial discussion.

He had asked the mayor why the city's street sweeper is not working and if other services are additional funds will have to be found.

At the same meeting, Mayor Warfield said that neither he nor the city would be supporting the general fund.

He had been kept informed of the financial condition. "Some (rare) thinking of reducing legal department—and that is the most foolish thing they could do," he contended, there is a need now. With any kind of proposal," he contended, there is a need now.

of delinquent buildings. "Most aldermen have at least one or two in their wards," he said of deteriorating buildings which should be condemned.

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT: "Schuler claims further cuts in the city engineer's workforce would stop or severely alter projects such as the Bradley drainage program, which is just starting since Community Development funds have been released for the project."

Revenue proposals to support the city's current payroll, which also must be funded through additional borrowing, did receive informal support from some aldermen Tuesday.

"I think aldermen must pass all three of the proposals I have made," Schuler said. The mayor said the employment tax of 43 per cent on all jobs in the city, without exemption, would not cause "celebrating in the streets" by large industries in the area. He contended, however, "Industry is going to be tickled to death that this apparently is the only tax (levied) being adjusted."

"I am sure industry would like to pay its fair share for employees—people who live outside the city," the mayor said, comparing his employment tax to the city earnings tax levied by St. Louis on all its workers.

The Illinois state legislature has, thus far, refused all requests to allow local municipalities to levy such an earnings tax, the mayor said. However, according to Schuler, Chicago has already successfully defended a "head tax" before the Illinois Supreme Court.

This summer, Schuler sought aldermanic backing again for a electricity utility tax, he said, but aldermen had voted not to even consider such a tax. "It is obvious to me, we can't get the required number of votes" to get approval for a utility tax now, he said.

Schuler noted that his proposed 5 percent telephone tax is, a "much smaller" utility tax. He called the telephone tax "more equitable, I suppose. You pay on services you receive."

The mayor now supports the passage of a 3 1/2 percent sales tax (although he once opposed it) because "it's the only thing we've got."

Schuler said that, based on the opinions of city attorneys and advice from Springfield advisors and with the "new wording" of the ordinance, "it will stand any challenge in court."

If approved, the city could begin collecting the head tax some time in February, if enforcement starts in January. Approximately the same schedule is anticipated for the 3 1/2 percent sales tax, he said.

(A related editorial on the tax package appears on today's editorial page.)

VANDALISM BY BOYS DAMAGES SUPPLY CO.

Vandals used concrete bags rocks to break 42 windows on the front and side of the Siderup Supply Co. building at 19th and Adams streets last week.

The following night, two youths were arrested for questioning after several were seen breaking panes and removing them from Siderup property near the 20th Street railroad crossing. An investigation is continuing.

HOUSE BURGLARY
Unknown persons broke the kitchen window at the home of Sam Economy, 1519 Fifth St., Madison, and ransacked the interior. It was discovered at 10:30 p.m. Thursday. Nothing was found to be missing at the time, but the owner is making a list of any items found missing, and submit it to the Madison Police.

ST. LOUIS — A knee injury suffered by Don Schwartz last Sunday has caused the strong safety to be placed on Injured Reserve by the St. Louis football Cardinals, who today signed defensive back Herb Williams to restore the roster to 45, it was announced by Larry Wilson, director of pro personnel.

Williams is a second-year player out of Southern University who was drafted on the sixth round by San Francisco in 1980. He played in nine games for the 49ers last season after missing the first six while on injured reserve with a shoulder injury. He saw most of his playing time on special teams.

Williams, 6-0, 198, returned to the 49ers camp this summer but was released on Aug. 17. He was one of two members of the 1979

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Quarterback Club and the St. Louis football Cardinals selected Sunday's Dec. 6 game with the New Orleans Saints to assist The Salvation Army's 1981 "Tree of Lights" Campaign.

Members of the Quarterback Club, supported by Salvation Army personnel, will be maintaining the Christmas kettles at each of the Stadium entrances prior to the game.

John Hammond Quarterback Club President stated that all contributions combined with donations collected from their members and presented to The Salvation Army on behalf of the Big Red, Quarterback Club and their fans.

ST. LOUIS — With no returning seniors or letterwinners, Gary Morgan, Granite City South's girls basketball team, is using this season as a building year.

She has some capable players but the lack of experience is going to be a drawback," said Morgan.

Morgan graduated the seven players who led them to the first round of sectional play last season.

High school girls should have a strong inside game, both in the shooting and rebounding categories. Unfortunately, the area in which they are weak, game experience, can only be gained as the season progresses.

"We need to work on stress situations where we need to hit the free throws or steal the ball," Morgan said.

With only one senior on the squad, Teresa Gwasdad, juniors and sophomores will be seeing a considerable amount of action. Morgan said Jennifer Robinson, a sophomore forward, is a strong rebounder both offensively and defensively.

Morgan expects Susan Schneke, a junior, to be the other starter at point guard.

South plays two games before the holiday break, a factor Morgan views as both good and bad. He acknowledged the two early games will give his team the much needed game experience but added it also rushes them in learning the basic skills.

South opens its season Dec. 17 in an away game against Bunker Hill. Their first real test of the season will come after the holidays, however, when they play Belleville East at East.

Morgan is hoping some of the success of last year's team will carry over to this year. "It's a real benefit when you have a winning tradition," Morgan said. "It can do nothing but help."

"I would just like the girls to be able to be satisfied with themselves after victories. If they know what it takes to win, then it can only help for next year."

Next season, if the team develops like Morgan believes it can, South will be the team to watch in the Gateway East Conference. As far as this season, however, Morgan is just hoping the team gains some valuable experience and has a good year along the way.

MAISON — Smoke hung like a heavy fog in Englebert Hall. Boer flowed freely from the tappers. Four bright lights illuminated the boxing ring. The 1,200-plus standing room only crowd surrounded the ring.

"I think from the movie 'Rocky' start playing over the loud speaker system. The crowd, anticipating the action, began whistling and cheering."

Two boxers came prancing to the ring, climbing through the red, white, blue and yellow ropes.

MHC, his white satin robe gleaming in the lights.

The two boxers slipped off their rubbers. The bell rang. Punctures started flying.

The boxing card hosted by the Missouri Honorary Commission Boxing Club (MHC) Friday evening had started. Two and one-half hours and 13 bouts later, all 26 area boxers participating would emerge as winners. The only losers would be a few members of the crowd who started fighting and throwing chairs after the final bout.

The last fight featured MHC's Danny Morgan, a St. Louis Golden Gloves champion, a year ago, against Carlos Garret of Pop Myles. This was the fight the crowd had been waiting for.

In the second round with the crowd yelling "Mendoza, Mendoza, Men-dosa," the referee asked the two fighters to break. Garret didn't. The referee gave him a standing eight count. His coach, upset by the ruling, told Garret to quit. Mendoza won on a "retirement" ruling.

The crowd booed. The best fight of the evening had ended early. They were upset.

Two fights broke out in the crowd. Chairs were thrown. People were pushed. But nobody was seriously hurt.

Mercie Mendoza, coach of the MHC, was not pleased with the ending of the fight or the conduct of the crowd after the fight. He blamed the crowd's conduct on the way the fight ended.

"The fans take it out on the coach and the fighter," he said. "I think it's bad sportsmanship on the coach's part."

"It just makes the kid look bad. What's he to do? He has to listen to his coach."

Danny Mendoza was also upset with the ending but he didn't blame Garret. "I don't think he deserved the standing eight count," he said.

"It made both of us look bad. When it happens in front of my hometown crowd, it looks like the referee is partial to me."

"It's kinda an upsetting way of ending. I don't call the shots. I just came to fight," Danny said.

Mendoza's victory raised his career record to 32-5 and 4-0 this season.

Coch Mendoza was pleased with the size of the crowd and his enthusiasm. He was displeased with the scuffle at the end.

The crowd was energetic, standing on their chairs and screaming to the fighters. "Get 'em! Stick 'em! Get your gloves up. Get out of the corner."

The hometown MHC boxers won three of the eight bouts they fought. Mickey Valentine won a TKO with Chuck McDowell of NCAA. Rich Mendoza won by decision over Chris Lee of ANO.

It was Rich Mendoza's 15th win in 20 fights. Weighing only 95 pounds, his reason for fighting are simple.

"I show myself that I'm tough and I have the ability to go in here and take punches and still come back in — that I'm a tough cookie," R. Mendoza said.

He also enjoys being center stage and having a crowd of people cheering for him. "I feel like I'm in command — that I own all these people — that they're mine," Rich said. His dad, Merdie, the coach of the MHC and a former Golden Gloves champion.

In other fights, Marcus Terry, NCAA, beat Derrick Bloodworth, MHC; Carl Daniels, NCAA, over Terry Davis, MHC; Willie Ball, NCAA, beat Joe Gancheff, MHC; Brian Harris, NCAA, over Randy Doneda, MHC; Rick Holton, Twin Cities, defeated Brian Basore, MHC.

Raymond Johnson, 12th & Park, over Gary Johnson, Pop Myles; Leon Henderson, 12th & Park, beat Jim Jones, Twin Cities; Tony Pruitt, Pop Myles, over Lamont Buchanan, NCAA; and Tony Martin, Neighborhood, defeated Dion Garrett, Pop Myles.

Mercie Mendoza said he would like to have MHC host one more card this season. Next year, he would like them to host a card every other month.

Steelers teach Edwardsville lesson

By ROGER KRAMER

For the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Before the Edwardsville Tigers had played a basketball game, they were picked as one of the best teams in the Metro-East area and the favorite to win the Gateway East Conference. On the other hand, Granite City North, 3-21 last season, wasn't ranked in any pre-season polls. Few people expected great things out of the Steelers.

Granite City gave the Tigers a lesson in humility here Friday night. The Steelers surprised the Tigers, 45 in the GEC opener for both schools and the season opener for Edwardsville.

"This has to be one of the biggest victories in the nine year history of North," Steelers coach Bill Ohlendorf said. "Hopefully, we made some believers out of some people. We hope we can continue to pull off some more big victories like that."

North made a believer out of Edwardsville coach Bud Vallino and the Tigers. He found out that the pre-season publicity given the Tigers might have been bad for them.

"I really believe the kids got so much publicity about how good they are that they thought they didn't have to play that hard against North. The kids have a long way to come," Vallino said.

"North's a much better ball club than last year, and they did a whole of a good job, but we made too many mistakes," Vallino said.

Edwardsville lived up to the pre-season expectations for the first four minutes of the game as it took a 11-2 lead, but North's full court press forced the Tigers to make bad passes. Those turnovers proved to be the downfall of the Tigers.

Edwardsville gave the ball to the Steelers nine times in the second quarter, mostly on bad passes. North, trailing 13-7 after the first quarter, cut the margin to three points, 21-18, by halftime.

"There were some times when they could have put us away like when they took the 10 point lead in the second quarter, but we just stayed in there," Ohlendorf said.

Although North's Steve Tritschuh, Terry Martin and Harold Rody, all scored to open the third quarter and put North in the lead, the Tigers' Paul Schaefer, a 6-9 center, scored 13 of his team's 15 points that quarter and the Tigers led 36-32 at the end of the quarter.

North finally took the lead for good early in the fourth quarter. Carl Luehmann made both free throws in a bonus situation with 6:38 left to tie the game at 38-41. Just 21 seconds later, Luehmann made a jump shot from the key to take the lead.

To preserve the lead, North took its time to look for the good shot while keeping up an aggressive full court press. The strategy worked so well that Edwardsville had to foul to stay in the game.

"Fouling look like the best way for Edwardsville to stay in the game because the Steelers had made only seven of 14 attempts at the free throw line in the first three quarters. However, North made 10 of 14 attempts in the fourth quarter to end any hopes of a Tiger victory.

"We just made the free throws when we had to," Ohlendorf said. "What can they do? They just did the job after they took the lead. They played so much better than last week. We just tried to hold the ball and run a patient offense. We crowd out and waited for the good shot."

North's pressure also kept Edwardsville from attacking the basket as much as Vallino would have liked the Tigers to do.

"We didn't attack the basket at all. I'm actually concerned that we made too many free throws. Like throwing the ball over each other's heads and throwing the ball back to the guards once we had it. That's not our style of ball at all," Vallino said.

"They (North) did a good job of pressing. They forced our big men to go back to our guards, and that's the idea of the press. I don't anybody played a positive ball game for us, including Schaefer. We threw the ball away to many times."

For the game, Edwardsville committed 20 turnovers compared to 15 for North.

"We worked an awful lot on defense with the accent on pressure," Ohlendorf said. "We had better shot selection because we knew we had to have it against a team like Edwardsville."

Although North's shooting percentage wasn't high (46 of 47 for 34 percent), it was better than making 27 percent as they did in the opener with Wood River. Edwardsville made 19 of 48 attempts for 40 percent.

Schaefer was the leading scorer with 19 for the Tigers and Bradford added 15 points. Tritschuh and Rody each scored 12 points for the Steelers.

Vallino thought the loss might have done the Tigers some good.

"Maybe it was a good thing they beat us. They knocked us down early in the season, and it showed the boys they have their work cut out for them. I think we are a better team, but tonight they were the better team," Vallino said.

The win was also a good thing for North. "No one gave us a chance as far as challenging against a team like Edwardsville. We had a lot to prove because a lot of people were skeptical that we could do it since they same kids beat us pretty easily last year in the junior varsity games. Now that we tasted victory, maybe now we can put away any doubts about what we can do," Ohlendorf said.

Madison stuns Red Devils

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record

MADISON — The Venice Red Devils found out that team play will beat one-on-one basketball any day of the week here Friday night.

Defending IA state champion Madison stunned the Red Devils 80-54. The defeat left the Trojans with a 2-4 record, the Red Devils at 1-2 and the Venice coach Ken Perkins with a bad taste in his mouth.

"We tried to shoot ball 'em tonight," the dejected coach said. "And you can't do that. We've got some kids who only want the ball if they can shoot it. If they don't want it, there will have to be some changes made if we going to be as good as everyone says we are."

Indeed, The Red Devils shot a miserable 23 of 66 from the floor and a frigid eight of 18 from the free throw line.

Meanwhile, Madison, playing the type of team ball that has taken it to the top in recent years, broke away from a back-and-forth game in the first quarter to the victory.

"I was expecting a lot closer game," said Madison head coach Larry Graham. "We got great efforts from everybody tonight."

The Trojans were led in scoring by Claggett and Avery Crawford who each scored 18 points.

"Claggett is one of the best basketball players," said Perkins. "He's a good athlete. He's not selfish and feeds when he needs to."

"But they (Madison) play unselfish ball all the way around."

Guard Billy Papa scored 13 points for the Trojans. "He played one heck of a game, I thought," said Graham. "He's not flashy, but he gets the job done. He's steady."

After a sluggish start by both teams, the Trojans gradually took control. They led 14-0 at the end of the first quarter and outscored the Red Devils 24-9 in the second quarter.

"Eighteen points in a half," moaned Perkins. "I've seen us score more points than that in three minutes."

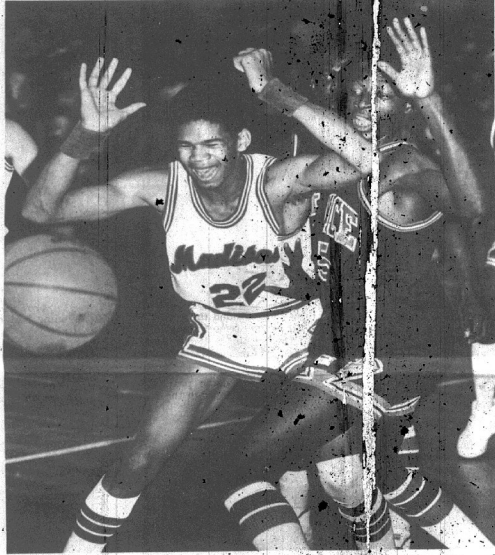

Perhaps indicative of the way the game would go for Venice came in the second quarter when Keith Marchbanks found himself alone near the basket with the ball. He went up for a slam-dunk and lost his grip on the ball. The ball bounced around inside the rim and popped out. The Madison parlayed it.

Venice placed only two players in double figures. Sophomore guard Eddie Salmond had 12 and Forward Kenneth Walker had 16. Marchbanks and Archie Gardner were held to eight and six points respectively.

"We've got to get the points out of those two," said Perkins. "They're supposed to be our leaders."

The Red Devils tried to mount a comeback in the second half, but by the time they would manage to crawl within seven or eight points, the Trojans would get three or four straight baskets and build their lead back up.

Madison's 6-6 senior center Mark Zarr scored 12 points but wasn't a dominating factor in the game. "But when the rest of the team is playing as well as they did tonight, he doesn't have to be," said Perkins.

"We didn't let up," said Graham. "When we got them down early, they still had time to catch up, but we played well enough to keep them down."

MISL attendance soaring

PHILADELPHIA — After only two weeks of Major Indoor Soccer League (MISL) action, over 450,000 fans have already witnessed the sport that many commentators have called "The Sports Phenomenon of the 80's."

Now in its fourth season, the MISL per game attendance has skyrocketed to over 12,000 — an increase of 70 percent over last winter's average of 7,110. And the MISL areas are filling to 85 percent of capacity.

Twenty-two matches have been played and four games have kicked off before standing-room-only crowds — 10 others have come within 2,200 fans of hanging the SRO sign.

Last Saturday, the Baltimore Blast became the first MISL club to register back-to-back sellouts. Once again Blast fans were turned away at the gate, despite the fact that close to 1,000 seats have been added to the Civic Arena stage.

Also Saturday, the Kansas City Comets became the second club in MISL history to sellout their inaugural home game when Kemper Arena overflowed with 15,929 new indoor soccer fans, who saw a thrilling 2-4 overtime victory over natural rival Wichita. The SRO crowd in Kansas City was most impressive because the game was telecast live over KC-MO-TV, the CBS affiliate in Kansas City.

Wichita was the final MISL team to begin play and the defending Western Division Champs attracted a near-sellout 9,302 recruits to their "Orange Army." The Cleveland Force shattered their all-time record at Richfield Coliseum with a home opening crowd of 15,022 Saturday night. An average of 13,016 fans attended the 13th home opening contest — 4,000 more per game than last year.

Last weekend was the third largest Friday-Saturday-Sunday attendance in MISL history. In eight games, 94,446 fans attended.

SLOBO STAR PICK

Against the two returning Western Division playoffs teams — Wichita and Phoenix — Slobodan Iljeski, St. Louis goalie allowed only a pair of goals to each as the Steamers remained unbeaten. Against Wichita, the Wings managed to score only during man-advantage situations, and the skilled Slobodan earned his first assist of the season (and 7th of his career).

probably should have been returned for a touchdown in the fourth quarter, but he bobbed the ball out of bounds near the Saints 20-yard line.

St. Louis coach Jim Hanifan was pleased with his team's effort. "Just about everybody played well for us today," he said. "Our defense played well and got us good field position."

still be in college, he demonstrates a lot of poise out there on the field."

Wilson, who looks more like a beautiful California surfer than a professional football player, is happy too. "I'm real pleased with the way I've played this season," he said. "I'm not too happy with the way things went today, though."

Backing up a quarterback like Manning, who's won NFL Most Valuable Player honors in the past,

Everything looked pretty good for us."

Wright, whose interception foiled a Saints drive deep in Cardinals territory, praised his team's defense. "They (the Saints) were in scoring position several times today," he said.

"And we were able to back them up. They missed some chances, too. That didn't hurt us."

Indeed, Ricardo missed two field goals from fairly close range.

is almost an honor to Wilson. "I've learned a lot from him (Manning)," said Wilson. "He's been through a lot with this team through the years. I've got a lot to learn and I can't think of anyone I'd rather learn it from."

The Saints have a long way to go to gain respectability. Last season, they finished with only one victory. This season, they're 4-10 following their 30-3 loss to the Cardinals. But Wilson thinks happy days are just around the corner.

Courts terminate 1,443 suits, cases

The volume of pending cases in Circuit Court, Third Judicial Circuit (Madison and Bond counties), decreased during October by 175 cases and progress was made in the most time-consuming division, large law cases requiring a jury, where a gain of 32 cases was noted, according to the monthly report released Thursday.

"It was a very productive month," said Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard Portell. "We have had considerable jury cases and the jurors have been quite busy during the month. There also is a gain in the felony division, where 46 cases were filed and 63 were terminated. At the present time, the criminal docket is up to date. Cases and dispositions are moving rapidly in this division. This is a credit to the criminal division judges and to the state's attorneys' and public defender's offices," Portell added.

He noted that 4,878 new cases were filed during September, while 5,063 cases were terminated. He said there was a loss in the traffic area, "which is not significant, because these cases are not very time-consuming. The chief judge, Joseph J. Barr, and I are pleased with this report," he concluded.

Following are the numbers of each major type of case filed, terminated and pending at the end of September.

Small Claims	427	434	2089
Totals	1,362	1,443	12,757

Of the felony defendants whose cases were terminated during the month, 30 were convicted, 16 had their cases dismissed on consolidated with other cases, none were reduced to misdemeanors, 23 were convicted of lesser included misdemeanors and seven others were acquitted by a jury.

Guilty pleas during the month included one on a Class X felony, two for Class One felonies, seven for Class Two felonies, 20 for Class Three felonies and nine for Class Four felonies. No felony cases were decided in court during the month.

Felony sentences during the month included seven persons sent to prison, seven receiving probation with periodic imprisonment and 25 receiving probation or conditional discharges with other conditions.

3 charges filed in bar shooting

Rose J. Murphy, 50, of 1539 E. 20th St. was charged last week with battery, unlawful use of a weapon, and failure to obtain a firearm owner identification card.

She was arrested in connection with a shooting at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday in a tavern at that address.

After an argument, a single .38-caliber bullet struck the left wrist and left side of the neck of the tavern's proprietor, Kenneth Archer, who was hospitalized for treatment. He was bleeding from both wounds but remained seated on a bar stool until an ambulance arrived.

The bullet traveled on and struck a wooden wall plaque on which was mounted a wild boar's head. The bullet then fell to the floor and was seized as evidence along with a revolver and five bullets that had not been fired.

Mayors favor elected utility rate commission

The Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors of Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties has voted unanimously to recommend to Governor James Thompson and the General Assembly that appropriate action be taken to provide for open election of members of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The resolution adopted by the Council of Mayors calls for the election of Mayors to the election of Commerce Commission members by the people of Illinois to assure "a more responsive, more accountable commission, leading to the most efficient provision of utility services at the lowest possible cost."

In presenting the resolution, legislative Committee Chairman Gene Brombolich, mayor of Collinsville, said the mayors are concerned, as chief elected officials, about "inordinate increases in utility rates."

Mayor Gary Mackey of O'Fallon said the Illinois Commerce Commission has allowed electric rate increases on the average of 7.7 percent a year during the 1978-1979 period, compared with an average rate increase of 2.7 percent in those states with elected "commerce commissions."

Madison Mayor Arthur Mackey, mayor of Marissa, supported the call for a commerce commission as a way to protect ratepayers from "large rate increases which have been in the face of widespread opposition from consumers, local government officials and others."

Continuation of the present trend in rate increases, he said, will continue to cause real economic hardship for an increasing proportion of the mayors' constituents," he said.

In other action taken by the Council of Mayors, those present affirmed a formal resolution to President Ronald Reagan and the Illinois Congressional delegation calling for rejection of attempts to further reduce general revenue sharing payments to local governments — and for abandonment of efforts to modify rules governing the issuance of tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds by municipalities. General revenue sharing is seen by the mayors as a return of locally-generated tax monies collected by the federal government, for use in meeting locally-determined priority needs.

Further cutbacks in the revenue sharing program will seriously strain already-approved local budgets; it was emphasized.

Industrial revenue bonds, which can be issued by local governments to help finance job-creating private industry projects, are "an important economic development tool for local officials," it was asserted.

The tax-exempt bonds, which are retired entirely from private revenue, can best be utilized for projects which meet locally-determined criteria; further federal intervention by way of additional rulemaking would be, according to the Mayors' Council, unnecessary and inappropriate.

Russian tour is Travelers program

Travelers Abroad met last week with about 50 members and guests present. Guests introduced were Miss Betty Duff, Mrs. Ann Turner, and Mr. and Mrs. William McFain. Reservations were taken for the group's Christmas party which will be held at Burn's Cafeteria.

Indonesia is chapter topic

Ruth Stoyanoff led a cultural program on Indonesia for members. Preceptor Beta Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, at a meeting hosted by Mrs. Evelyn Tolliver.

Her presentation was an attempt to understand the world's fifth most populous country and the home of Beta Sigma Phi in the capital city of Jakarta.

She traced the history of the country starting with its being known as the birthplace of civilization because the people who inhabited its thousands of islands were using an advanced form of hunting weapon while much of the rest of the earth was encased in ice. Then to its 450 years of foreign colonial rule, followed by its World War II fight for independence and more recently, its effect on the world's political and economic situation.

The business segment was conducted by Marilyn Lumpkins, president, who announced the chapter will have a pledge ritual for Terry Gulegde at the next meeting in the home of Jane Laule.

Mrs. Laule, service chairman, reported a Thanksgiving basket was taken to the chapter's adopted senior couple.

Mrs. Arlene Haldean, social chairman, announced plans for a Christmas party to be held in the home of Norma Rains on Dec. 16, to begin with a 6:30 dinner.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses to those named and to Delores Dorch, Pat Tsigaloroff, Norma Rains, Carol Calvey, Martha Dyer, Barbara J. Jones, and Linda Koenig.

Oberkfell's parents of first child

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Oberkfell of Maryville became the parents of a boy born on Nov. 17 at Belleville Memorial Hospital.

The new arrival has been named Christopher Kenneth. Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Chris Petroff of Granite City, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oberkfell of Maryville. The great-grandmother, Mrs. Marie Oberkfell also resides in Maryville.

EXPERT APPRAISING - MORRIS REALTY CO.

The four left Dales Airport in Washington, D.C., on the Russian Aeroflot Airlines and all transportation between the cities within the USSR was by Aeroflot. McFain said the airlines were not as clean as ours, the seats were very uncomfortable, and every plane was a type that could be converted into a bomber within a few hours. As is customary, intourist was in charge of the group and every variation from the planned schedule had to be approved by them (and this was seldom done.)

Intourist is actually part of the KGB, the secret police organization. The McFains said they did not notice that any of their group was being followed nor did they see any signs of their luggage or hotel rooms having been searched. They were not allowed to photograph any bridges, armed services personnel, or airports but occasionally a bridge just happened to sneak into a picture. After the McFains were back on American soil, they got their plane Visas to enter Russia as on separate forms which are inserted into one's passport. These forms are collected at the point of departure so there is absolutely nothing in the passport to indicate one's trip behind the Iron Curtain.

We officially refer to Russia as the U.S.S.R. but there the official reference is generally CCCP, meaning the Supreme Socialist Soviet Republic. The red star was highly visible on many buildings and showed up especially well at night. The guests explained. The term Kremlin automatically means Russia to us, but the word actually comes from the work krmli, meaning fortress. Surrounded by a huge red brick wall, these 12 acres that make up the Kremlin, contain the seat of power of the Russian government. Although most of the official buildings are within the walls, there are also many theaters, museums, and non-working churches.

Special permission is required to enter many buildings but tourists constantly stream through areas that are open. McFain said he and another tour gentleman tried to enter the library but without a pass from intourist, this was not possible. Even the Russian citizens need special passes to enter. Many times Mrs. McFain got inside buildings which were part of the nurses' study library, but her husband did not.

Mrs. McFain said all of the nursing personnel agreed that Russia was terribly far behind in health-care facilities. They compared many of the hospitals they visited to our country's older facilities which have generally been replaced with modern facilities. The nurses were not in uniforms and the individual clothing styles did not have a clean, efficient appearance. Doctors and nurses in Russia are quite low on the pay schedule—but drivers and key ladies all receive more remuneration than the medical personnel. About 79 percent of the doctors are women.

Inside the Kremlin the Bell Tower of Ivan the Great is the tallest building. The bells are silent today but many of them are still visible through the arches of the tower.

Another slide showed a huge bell, called the "Queen of the Bells," which weighs more than 200 tons. This bell was damaged while being made and a huge chunk is missing from it, but it still draws the photographers because of its size.

Outside the Kremlin in Red Square in St. Basil's Cathedral, another non-working church, noted for its eight onion-type domes which are highly decorated. (Many thought it resembled part of Disneyworld.)

Another important feature of Red Square, where all the important parades and assemblies are held, is the Lenin Mausoleum. The guards are changed here every hour and the ceremony involved includes three goose-stepping guards who march about two blocks from their barracks to the tomb. In the same area is their Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. It is customary for many brides to bring flowers here after their wedding. Pictures of Lenin are nearly everywhere, the McFains noted.

The GUM store, also located on Red Square facing the Kremlin, is famous for its size. Designed with several stories and a center wide aisle, nearly all of the shops are owned by different people.

The McFains attended the famous Moscow Circus and found it different from ours. This circus was designed to tell a fairy tale. It was evident that the Russians enjoy ice cream and Pepsi's. There is no hesitation when ordering a cone. There is only one flavor available each day. The Pepsi machine features a communal glass. Everyone drinks from the same glass, which is rinsed by the customers with a brief squirt of water. People were lined up in the slide shown by McFain to await their turn for a Pepsi.

Sochi, a resort area on the Black Sea, features tea farms in the nearby areas. Tea plants will grow as tall as normal trees if not cut back. Most of the tea farmers kept their plants pruned to about 30 inches tall.

Lenningrad, the best-planned city in the world, is built on 44 islands and is known as the Venice of the North. Since its beginning, there have been over 300 bridges built here—some single-lane bridges while many others are huge and open up at regular intervals to allow ships to pass up or down the Neva. Lenningrad is in the same latitude as Anchorage, Alaska, and for six months out of every year, the water is frozen into layers of ice. During the other six months, it is a delightful city to visit. Slides showed the famous Palace Square dominated by the curved General Staff Headquarters. These familiar buildings are broken by an arch which is topped by a chariot drawn by six horses. In the center of the square is the Alexander Column commemorating the Russian Victory of 1812. It is the largest monolith of modern times.

One of the famous art museums of the world is here—the Hermitage. Several other buildings make up this museum and the McFains' group was allowed two hours to see it all.

Going by Petrofrol on the Gulf of Finland, the group visited Peter the Great's residence called Monplaisir, which is now called Petrovskoye. When one arrives by water, it entails a fairly long walk as one approaches the famous Samson Fountain which is linked to the sea by a canal. There are 142 spouting fountains here, many of them encased in gold leaf. In addition, there are some "surprise" fountains, controlled by a human, which might show a visitor at some unexpected moment.

At the conclusion of their program, the McFains invited the audience to look over some of the souvenirs and literature they had brought home. As with most visitors to Russia, the nested wooden dolls were part of their display. One of the dolls nestled down to a tiny doll about one inch in height.

DeMolay Mothers install

Mrs. Ruby Sullivan was installed as president of the DeMolay Mothers Club at a meeting held in the Masonic Temple, last week.

Other officers to serve for the ensuing year are, Barbara McKinney, vice-president, Sandy Wingrove, secretary, Virginia Catter, treasurer, and Rose Buckingham, chaplain.

Mrs. Verna Stuart served as the installing officer. The meeting was opened by the retiring officer, Mrs. Liz Gibbons and the Mother's Prayer was offered by Mrs. McKinney.

Mrs. Gibbons welcomed 19 members and a new member, Barbara Louise Favier. Mrs. Martha Simpson presented a past president's pin to Mrs. Gibbons during the session and a chain rose was given to Mrs. Stuart in appreciation for conducting the ceremony. This completed a dozen roses she has received as installing officer.

The revised by-laws were distributed to each one and it was noted the Christmas dinner party was held at Burn's Cafeteria featuring a gift exchange.

Members also completed plans for a Christmas potluck for the DeMolay members set for Dec. 15, at 6:30 p.m. in the dining room at the Masonic Temple.

Mary Stuart, state Mothers Club chaplain, gave the closing modations. Refreshments were served to those named and to Mary Church, Louise Favier, Peggy Hackney, Lois Hebblethwaite, Jane Meier, Jo Meyer, Charlotte Mize, Doris Payne, Beverly Singleton, and Pat Tsigaloroff.

Christmas Services at Area Churches

Tri City Park Tabernacle plans children musical

The musical presentation of "Mary Had A Little Lamb" will be presented on Sunday evening, Dec. 3 at the Tri-City Park Tabernacle, by the children choir and puppet ministry. The musical is under the direction of Don Stratton, associate pastor and minister of music at the church.

This musical includes dramatization by an entire cast of puppets, under the direction of Randy and Linda Hildebreth. Other puppeteers include Tommy and Tammy Tracy, Mark Arnold, Danny Cuppett, Betty Dickey and Matt Barnes. The entire puppet production is choreographed by the Hildebreths.

A unique musical which presents the old truths of Christmas from a fresh new perspective. From the animals' point of view, it is open to the public. Puppets tell the story of Jesus' birth while the 40 voice children choir sing various Christmas numbers.

"The children have been practicing for the past three months and are simply going to warm your hearts through this joyous musical," stated Stratton, who is assisted by his wife Lynda and by Carol Cooper.

Christmas at area Baptist Churches

The Madison County Baptist Association announces Christmas worship services to take place in Quad-City Baptist Churches on various dates this month.

Bethesda Baptist, 2707 Namecki Drive, will present a play entitled, "No Pillow For His Head" written by Dorothy Willis Jones, on Dec. 20.

Calvary Baptist, 3000 Washington Ave., plans to show a film on "Sand Castle" during the evening service on Dec. 13, and on Dec. 20 a cantata entitled, "King of Love" by Roger Starden, will be performed. The Sunday School program on Dec. 23 will be on the "Life of Christ" by Charles Holmes.

Pontoon Baptist, 4008 Pontoon Road, plans a cantata on "Love Trapping" by John W. Peterson, on Dec. 20, and a Suburban Baptist, 2500 St. Clair Ave., observed Mission Gifts Day on Sunday and will view a cantata on "Heaven Rejoices" by Ken Parks, on Dec. 20, and host a candlelight service on Dec. 24.

Grace Baptist, 2600 Edwards St., will host a cantata, "Noel, Jesus Is Born" by Lanning Wolfe and Don March on Dec. 20.

First Baptist, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, will sponsor a Kiddie Karner Christmas program on Dec. 16, a caroling tour and chili supper on Dec. 17, a Sunday School Christmas program on Dec. 20 and a candlelight service on Dec. 24.

Advent service at St. John Lutheran

"Seeing God at Christmas," pre-Christmas sound film, will be shown at St. John Lutheran Church, 2001 St. Clair Ave., this Wednesday at 7 p.m., as part of the second midweek Advent worship service.

The film will take worshippers to the Moravian community of Bethlehem, Penn. It will feature family preparations and shopping, constructing the community "Putz" or Nativity scene, the traditional trombone choir will play Moravian hymns, there will be caroling, and also how this community highlights its Christmas preparations with a Christmas candlelight worship service at church.

Seminarist Joe Judge III will deliver an Advent message from the pulpit basing his mini-sermon on Isaiah 66 coordinating it in with the film for the evening. Mrs. Sarah Repp will serve as organist.

Pastor Samuel Boda will lead the congregation in worship.

Members of the congregation, under the leadership of Mrs. Julie Diak and John T. Severine Sr., of the property trustees, have done extensive decorating of the sanctuary in recent days to prepare it for the festive Christmas season, Rev. Boda said.

The Christmas candlelight service will be the first in this series and will be held on Sunday evening, Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. The general public is invited, the pastor added.

Club honors Mrs. Partney

The Bunko-Ettes Club honored Mrs. Ruth Partney on her birthday, at a meeting held in the home of her mother, Mrs. Rose Drube. She was presented with a gift and decorated cake.

Prize winners in the evening games included Angie Bucher, Mrs. Partney, Dorothy Barnett, Florida Batson and Helen Lipchik. Also present was Leona Delajoye, Judith Portell, Wanda Puhse and May Ebling.

Annual Way of Lights at Our Lady of Snows

Over 100,000 lights illuminate a mile and a half roadway, with electro-art puppets depicting Jesus themes, a life-size nativity scene, a live-animal nativity scene, and continuous puppet shows nightly at National Shrine of Our Lady of Snows, 12th and Way of Lights.

The display — starting 1981, the "National Year of the Light" — illuminates the Shrine from 5 to 10 o'clock nightly, now and continuing through Sunday, Jan. 10.

Children's puppet shows, which have been seen by thousands of children and adults each year, once again are being performed in the visitors' center. The continuous shows are performed by the Shrine's newly-organized puppet troupe from 6 to 9 nightly.

A special slide program is shown in the mini-theater each evening. The Way of Lights display is sponsored by the Shrine Oblates and Layman's Association.

Both the display and the shows open to everyone and are free of charge.

CHRONIC HEADACHES

Some recurrent headaches are described by patients as "dull, with general aching and an occasional sharp pain that begins at the base of the skull." The pain may radiate up the back of the head and along the sides of the head to the temples.

In such cases, the cause is nearly always a mechanical misalignment in the upper three or four vertebrae. This tends to occlude, or close, the openings through which nerves pass between the vertebrae, thus irritating those nerves and causing the headache.

A chiropractic examination can determine the facts and indicate the course of treatment. Phone us for an appointment. There is no charge for consultation.

Review GC course offerings and content

In cooperation with Superintendent B. J. Davis, plus Warren D. Collins, the administrative assistant for instructional services, and other staff members, the Granite City School Board at its 1982 meeting will explore a variety of curriculum-related topics.

The first such meeting is planned in January and will be held in the boardroom.

While it is occupied often with business matters, personnel assignments and tax decisions, the Board of Education also sees a need to remain familiar with instructional programs, and their progress and effectiveness.

Course offerings and content will be discussed during the public meetings with educators familiar with the subjects, techniques and goals.

A similar approach was taken by some past boards. But it has not been emphasized in more recent years due to the board's devotion to pressing financial and policy matters.

Expressing a desire for greater board involvement in the curriculum are President George Moore, Secretary Robert Maxwell, Treasurer Dewey Melton and Members Thomas Miosky, Donald Stucke and Monroe Worthen.

The board's view is that the existing instructional program is sound. The board also believes that—as the instruction evolves into various courses—board members need to retain close familiarity, enabling them to provide overall guidance.

On the recommendation of Supt. Davis, Collins and speech department personnel at the South and North high schools, speech course titles and content have been revised to achieve uniformity.

The courses are acting I, II and III-IV, beginning and advanced stagecraft, individual events and oral communication.

In other business, the district was represented this week at a meeting of the Southwestern Division, Illinois Association of School Boards. The speaker was Thomas Miller, an attorney, and the topic was the new Illinois Open Meeting Act, which discourages private sessions of boards and councils.

Again this year, Granite City schools will participate on a voluntary basis in a charitable program, Jump Rope for Heart, sponsored by the Illinois Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Endorsed by the Governor's Council on Health and Fitness, the fund-raising project for the Heart Association has received national publicity and acclaim.

Ligh Heller, school district physical education coordinator, said in a report to the board last week that seven Granite City schools participated last year, collecting over $24,000.

She related, "A portion of all monies collected statewide will be used to conduct heart research with children. Current statistics on the prevalence of heart disease in youngsters make this research extremely beneficial."

"The basic Jump Rope for Heart program structure will be the same. All schools take part on a voluntary basis. Each team has six jumpers, and prizes are available for all participants."

"An 'early bird' sign-up incentive will be 15 free jump ropes for registration prior to Dec. 15."

Peggy J. Ellis was employed by the board as a social worker at the senior high schools effective Jan. 4. Barry Schroeder was named GCHS South assistant girls' basketball coach for the 1981-82 season.

A December leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Brenda M. Voyles, Mitchell kindergarten teacher.

Retirements effective Dec. 31 were approved for Virgil White, Scottsbluff, and Mitchell School, and Leona L. Grobowski, a South High cafeteria employee.

With 9,926 students enrolled in the district, latest monthly records showed attendance was led by White, 97.96 percent; Grigoby, 97.81 percent; and North, 95.53 percent; and South, 95.53 percent.

There were 9,178 students in the first through twelfth grades and 750 in kindergarten.

Overall enrollment decreased by 71 during the month, from 9,247 to 9,176. Enrollments account for 184 new entries and 235 withdrawals.

The 1981 Christmas holiday program for students began at the end of classes on Wednesday, Dec. 23. School will resume on Monday, Jan. 4, 1982.

The Mitchell Athletic Club was given permission to use the Johnson School gymnasium for its basketball program on Thursdays from 5 to 7 p.m. and on Fridays from 5 to 7 p.m., plus Fridays from 7 to 9 p.m. when the gym is not otherwise committed.

The Granite City Steel Management Club will use the Namekichi School gymnasium, Dec. 19, for its annual children's Christmas party.

Industrial education metal supplies will be provided by Silgo for $1,250 and Metco for $743.

Electrical supplies for industrial education classes will be purchased from Crescent Electric, $1,003; Graybar Electric, $583; United Electric Supply, $528; and The Industrial, $132.

Villa Lighting and United Electric Supply were designated as vendors for specified lighting supplies required at school buildings during 1982.

An agreement was approved for Landshare Past Foods to purchase the district's eight malted milk machines at two cents per malt sold in the cafeteria; the two cents per malt will be applied toward purchase of each machine; and subtracted from monthly bills paid by the district to the company.

If Landshare has a remaining balance on any unpurchased machines, and if the firm is not awarded the malt contract in the next school year, the unused portion of the two-cent price reduction fund will be forfeited by Landshare.

The agreement is for half of the current market cost of each machine for a total of $25,945; the schools' original cost was $18,999. If all eight malt machines are sold, the district will realize a profit of $6,946 above its original cost.

After a review of bids on roof trusses, windows and doors for building trades classes, purchases were made from Fischer Lumber totaling $2,599. O'Neil

Dental school to remain open

Recommendations for continuance of the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine, while reducing operating and capital improvement costs at the school, were approved last week by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The board also received a recommendation urging a "modest" reduction in the entering class size at each Illinois dental school, including SIUE and the University of Illinois.

The recommendations were presented to the IBHE by its Dental Education Committee, which has been reviewing dental education in the state since September, particularly the economic and educational justification for the dental school at SIUE at Edwardsville.

The state board will consider approval of the recommendations at its January meeting.

The seven-member committee was 6-1 in favor of the recommendations, with James M. Unland of Pekin voting in opposition.

Other members of the committee, which will continue to study the retention of dental school graduates for practice as dentists in Illinois are: Dr. Diego Redondo, chairman, Deerfield; Gaylord Donahue, Libertyville; William Harris, Pontiac; Richard Hart, Benton; Richard P. Stone, Springfield; and Merle R. Yant, Peoria.

Stone, who was not present Tuesday, sent a letter to the committee stating his desire to keep the SIUE dental school open.

Convening last week before the IBHE meeting, the committee concluded that:

"The need for additional dentists in Illinois persists. Of the 102 counties in the state, 91 have more than 2,000 people per dentist. Of the remaining 11 counties, more than 4,000 people per dentist."

"This disparity in the availability of dental manpower indicates a need for all four dental schools (two are private) in the state."

"However, there does not appear to be a need for dental schools to maintain their current entering class enrollments. Analysis of additional dentists needed

Lumber, $1,468; Illinois Lumber, $1,107; a Great Central, $884; and Troy Building, $535.

Analysis of the building trades bids was expedited, due to good construction weather this fall, work on a new student-built residence is progressing faster than had been anticipated.

statewide to achieve a ratio of 2,000 people per dentist and to replace existing dentists who are completing their careers—indicates a need for about 340 dental graduates per year over the next five years.

"This analysis suggests that all dental schools should reduce their entering class enrollment by at least 10 percent."

A reduction of 10 percent in enrollment will enable the state to reduce expenditures on dental education by an estimated $1.5 million per year.

"The need for additional dentists in the southern half of the state is greater than in the northern half. This, relatively greater need for additional dentists in southern counties warrants the continuation of the SIUE, SDM."

"The SIUE-SDM has constituted the bulk of its graduates have located in southern counties and, as a result, have contributed to reducing the ratio of people per dentist in that region."

"Moreover, it has demonstrated that it provides dental care in the areas of Alton and East St. Louis. On these grounds, there is educational justification for continuation of the School."

However, the relatively greater cost per student at the SIUE-SDM is a concern. The School should take immediate steps to reduce state support per student.

"Continuation will require construction of new facilities to house the instructional clinic. The school should take immediate steps to reduce substantially its $9 million capital plan and recommend a revised plan to the SIUE Board of Trustees and the IBHE which will include clinical facilities at Alton and East St. Louis."

Individually several members of the Dental Education Committee were laudatory in their comments about the SIUE dental school.

Chairman Redondo is believed to have summarized the majority feeling of the committee when he said, "SIUE is fulfilling its mission in providing dentistry for central and southern Illinois; regional clinical services, and continuing education courses for practicing dentists. There is no justification for closing the dental school."

Fessler gives campaign views, price

Fessler Jr. of Alton urged his candidacy for Democratic nomination for Congress in the 1st District, in the 1982 primary election.

He is married and the father of three, is a resident of the Alton area.

After graduating from College, with a degree in political science, he returned home to study at SIUE. At the time he is employed by the Alton area.

He is a member of the SIUE Operating Engineers Local 535.

"It is an interest in city affairs, I was appointed to serve as a member of the Alton Board of Aldermen."

"This, coupled with my work and interest in the city, has given me the impetus to seek the office."

He said time has come for a man to have a voice in the political arena who does not wish to just follow the political group and to stay that way.

He said, "I believe, the great respect for the community, in essence, to carry on his way of life."

New Explorer post secretarial careers

Explorer Post 120, specializing in secretarial careers, held its first organizational meeting last week.

The post is being sponsored by the G. H. Sternberg & Co. and the post will hold its second meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the Sternberg office, 1610 Delmar Ave. Evelyn Harris and Connie Clark are co-advisors.

At the coming meeting, Tara Stamps, a freelance court reporter, will present the program to the explorers. Visitors will be welcome, according to the advisors.

Officers of the post are: Lori Martin, president; Carla Veizer, first vice-president; Pam Rodgers, second vice-president; Brenda Knight, secretary, and Lisa Jones, treasurer. Charter members are Cindy Kiehl, Christine Evanoff, Kimberly Pointer, Karen Williams, Cherie Bosworth, Pamela Meyer, Angela Peterson, Susan Palmer and Kathy Britz.

Secretarial Explorer posts are involved in a variety of programs and projects featuring training, skill development systems, operations and service projects.

Explorers in the post will have the opportunity to learn about the requirements of secretarial careers and gain first-hand work experiences. Membership is open to both young men and women, ages 14 through 20, interested in learning about secretarial skills.

Mayor Schuler's tax proposals deserve careful study

It's not perfect, but, perhaps, it is the best compromise that can be reached. The topic is the proposal by Mayor Paul Schuler for a combined package of new taxes, coupled with increased sewage treatment fees for industrial users, is what the city needs to halt continued borrowing and "red ink" management.

The intent is to gather the money needed without a drastic property tax increase, while balancing the needs of industry. Previous tax proposals have fallen by the wayside when the persons "whose ox was being gored," in Alderman Sam Whitmer's words, strongly objected to so-called luxury taxes and city sales taxes.

Schuler proposes a $3 per month "head tax" on employers for everyone employed in the city. As we understand it, the tax is to be paid by the employer, and not-for-profit organizations will have to pay it, the same as business and industry.

If the employee were to pay it through wage deductions, this would seem fair. Three dollars a month is not too much for out-of-town residents to pay for the use of the city streets when driving into work in the city. While here, they are protected by the city's fire and police departments. The businesses and employees utilize the city's sewer system during the working day and numerous other services provided by the city are taken for granted. The cost of the fire department's Tele-squirt, designed especially to fight fires in tall buildings, justifies workers paying something for that protection, whether they live in the city or are among the more than half of those employed in the city who live elsewhere.

If the employers end up having to "foot the bill," however, which seems the present direction of the mayor's thinking, there could be problems. Imagine the cost for the school district with 911 full-time employees (630 teachers and 281 non-certified employees, not counting 329 substitutes and part-time employees) who would be subject to the head tax which they earn in excess of $900 in any fiscal quarter. The tax bill would be several thousand dollars a month. The same is true for St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City Steel and other employers of large numbers of persons.

The legislation the mayor has proposed is now being drawn up. We urge the city attorneys to write it in such a way that the monthly head tax can be paid by the employees, not the employers. As such, it may be subject to court challenge as an "occupation tax," but we doubt anyone in the city would file such an expensive challenge over $3 a month.

If the tax is, indeed, applied to the school district to pay, the taxpayers will be lost again. If it is levied at the medical center, the paying patients will have to lose. Strong opposition can be anticipated in this form.

Another possible source of revenue, the sales tax, has proven to be an unpopular tax. However, by reducing the amount to be collected and imposing a $3.75 maximum tax "cap" per item to protect local businesses from losing customers to surrounding towns on "large ticket" items, such as cars and appliances, the mayor has presented a very realistic legal challenge. No one is going to drive to Collinsville to save $3.75 on the price of a car, local dealers agree.

Reducing the tax from one percent to three-quarters of a percent was a welcome and intelligent move. The total tax in the city will rise from 3 1/2 percent (including the quarter-percent transit) to 3 3/4 percent, which should be easier for small merchants to figure. There still is a danger that suppliers of large quantities of smaller items to local industries may have to move out of the city to avoid losing business to suppliers who do not have to charge the tax, but, at least, the danger of that has been reduced by the cap.

The third proposal is a five percent tax on telephone bills. This will not be a popular tax and the aldermen will have to show some bravery in imposing it, since many will remember the act on election day. However, no one questions that the city needs money and a telephone tax is certainly not as harmful as a utility tax on electricity or natural gas. People can reduce their long distance calling with a minimum sacrifice, but people have to heat their homes this winter and many are finding power bills difficult to meet, as it is, particularly in light of the recent increase in electric bills of nearly 20 percent.

For some types of businesses and industries which utilize the telephones a great deal, and even some small businesses have phone bills exceeding $1,000 a month, a telephone tax may prove a burden. Considering that it is not an essential ingredient in the overall financial plan, aldermen should consider reducing or eliminating this portion of the proposal. A smaller tax of one or two percent would not impose such a severe hardship on the smaller businesses and dependent businesses and the amount of money lost would be a small part of the total tax package.

The industry also will be hit by the proposed higher sewer bills, but fair is fair. If it is costing the city more to treat the industrial sewage than they are paying for the service, it should be adjusted. Neither homeowners nor taxpayers should have to make up the difference. The sewer treatment plant and secondary plant were built to be self-sustaining from user fees, and every effort should be made to see that the charges to the users are in line with the cost of treating the sewage.

Conversely, the city is obliged and expected to operate the plant with as few employees and in as efficient a manner as possible. The people who are paying the bills do not want to support a plant used for unnecessary political patronage.

Mayor Schuler is calling for unified support for the package. Some cracks have to be anticipated, but the basic raw materials are there for a program which raises the needed revenue without driving people out of Granite City.

Some careful consideration is warranted. It appears the full taxes, if collected, would raise in the neighborhood of $1.5 million a year. There is no doubt that the city now needs that much for at least the next 18 months to pull itself out of debt and get police dispatchers and other essential employees back to work. However, that tax, by the end of the second year, is likely to exceed the city's needs, unless those needs are increased to try and keep up with the rising revenues.

Extreme restraint should be used not to take any "windfall" from the taxes and use it to buy Granite City the very best street sweepers, the best police cars, the largest street department and all the other temptations a cash surplus can produce. The taxpayers want to see the city pull itself out of its current debt and out of the services to which they have become accustomed, but these are hard times and the taxpayers cannot afford for the city to spend more than is needed to support the government at its most efficient, workable level.

If carefully thought out and well managed, we believe the plan will work and deserves the support of the city council.

Worker tax could lead to layoffs

To the Editor:

For those of you that do not know it, our mayor and aldermen are about to levy a tax on all our employers, in order to balance the city's budget.

This tax if imposed would penalize our employers $36 a year for each worker they have employed.

I realize something has to be done, but I think that this is not the antidote for the city's ills. This city is already struggling from its astronomical unemployment rate.

This tax would only bring forth complex problems for all of the populous of Granite City in the future.

The employers who would feel the greatest economic pinch are your bigger companies such as American Steel, which employs 1,650, with only 950 working and 700 lay off at this writing.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center employs 975 full-time workers and 235 part-time workers.

Granite City Steel, the largest employer in Granite City, employs 4,500 workers full-time, with an average of 450 to 500 unemployed workers at this writing.

This tax if imposed would also be very bad to small businesses, just as it would be for larger firms.

The bad part about this tax is that it would make the area unattractive to new business, which this area is in great need of since the closing of A. O. Smith and the old Commonwealth mill. Readers, this would probably have somewhat of a domino effect on employment at your place of work, such as being laid off more often than you would be if a different situation was at hand.

When times are slim, companies cannot afford dead weight on which they have to pay a tax just for you being there. So, because of the difficult economy and unemployment, I feel that this tax would be to the disadvantage of the community, instead of benefitting us, as the mayor would like to believe.

I urge my fellow citizens to participate in their local government, because only you can make the change for a better tomorrow. Think about your children's future.

BRIARCLIFF MAN

MAN IS ARRESTED
Julian B. Wallace, 44, of 1605 Elizabeth St., Madison, was arrested on a charge of aggravated battery at 4 a.m. Saturday at the corner of 19th Street and Edison Avenue.

Wallace allegedly became angry with Carol Ann Fletcher, 35 Blue Spruce Court, in the American Legion Hall earlier in the evening. They left the building and the woman was later found with her clothes and hair in disarray and a bleeding facial wound. She was in the back seat of a car owned by the barmaid, who called police.

She alleged that Wallace went into a rage and began striking her face and head. When Wallace was arrested by the police, a purse allegedly belonging to the victim alderman on the front seat of his truck with $50 missing, according to official reports.

Delay House, Senate filing

Filing for Illinois House and Senate positions was postponed last week from Dec. 7-14 to Dec. 28-Jan. 4. The March primary election filing period was deferred for three weeks by a panel of three federal judges. They are hearing a challenge to the state legislative redistricting plan.

(A different panel of three federal judges earlier set back the filing date for Congressional candidates to Dec. 28-Jan. 4 in Illinois. A new Congressional district map also is the subject of controversy.)

The state legislative reapportionment was upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court and continues to be studied by the federal court in Chicago.

The latest judicial ruling is that potential candidates for state representative and state senator need more time to consider new districts and boundaries.

Terry Owens, a State Board of Elections aide, praised the delay as providing "a breathing room." He said, "This gives candidates more time to figure out what the new districts are all about. They have to know exactly what districts they are in before they can make a decision."

"We are gearing up for the new filing dates," he said, "even though the Supreme Court has approved the legislative map, the federal court could throw the whole thing out. We don't know what they would do to the filing dates."

"They might have to be changed again if the court changes the boundaries or if its finding is taken to a higher court."

All other candidates, statewide, judicial, regional and county officials will still file their nominating petitions this week, either in Springfield or at their county seat, depending on the official's office.

County local okays pact

Local 799, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, voted 58-23 Friday to approve a new three-year contract.

The pact calls for a raise of at least $1 hourly for county government employees, for nursing home and shelter care home employees. The 250-member local bargains for about 400 workers.

Joanna Watson, Local 799 president, said employees will receive a raise of 3 cents an hour retroactive to the start of the fiscal year last Tuesday, Dec. 1. While job classifications vary, most individuals receive a starting pay of about $4 an hour.

A reopening clause will allow further salary negotiations for the third year of the agreement.

A cost-of-living pay increase clause in the previous contract was deleted in the new document.

Talks with a County Board negotiating committee are continuing for Teamsters Local 525, representing about 30 highway employees, and Operating Engineers Local 520, representing over 100 jailers and sheriff deputies.

Portell cites varied experience

Willard Portell, Madison County Circuit Clerk, will definitely be a candidate for state senator in the 35th District and will file his petition Dec. 7.

With my background as circuit clerk of the Third Circuit Court and the treasurer and sheriff's office, with other county officials and taxpayers, with the court system, and with my activity in legislation in Springfield, I feel that I will not be new to the system. I look forward to the challenge.

I am starting campaigning Dec. 2, hitting sidewalks, shopping centers, bars, bershops, grocery stores, etc.

I have a lot of new people to meet. They know me by name but they do not know me personally.

As usual, I will be a hard, clean campaigner. I feel that going door-to-door and shaking hands is the best type of politics.

I look forward to this and am anxious to start work in the Senate.

Gardenaires beautify GC library

To the Editor:

In this day and age, the public seldom stops to think about the things that make the world more beautiful for us all.

For over ten years, the Granite City Gardenaires

Garden Club has been making a special effort to decorate the Public Library for Christmas and the holidays.

This year, the Gardenaires spent their time, talent and money to add a new look to the Christmas decor at the library. It is beautiful.

Catholics inviting the inactive back to church

During the coming weeks, Roman Catholics will invite lapsed members to turn to church for the Christmas holidays.

In the annual campaign, "Come on Home for Christmas," waged in 28 parishes in Central Illinois, a campaign to inactive church members is being launched in a personal letter from Bishop Joseph A. Nicholas, leader of the Springfield Diocese's 184,000 members, in 180 parishes.

In a letter recently read to his congregations, Bishop Nicholas wrote, "Please join me in using the prayer card available at the church, by both using it yourself and giving it to a relative, friend or neighbor who may have strayed from the church. As always, I will write a personally-signed letter inviting them home. If you send their names directly to me, or through your parish."

Names may be submitted to the bishop by writing Post Office Box 1987, Springfield, Ill., 62705.

In addition to a letter, Catholics whose names are submitted to the bishop will receive a visit from their local parish to demonstrate the caring of fellow church members in this community. During the campaign, which extends through Christmas, outdoor signs have been erected as many parishes with the invitation, "Come on Home for Christmas."

Television and radio spots carry the same appeal.

Many church members who have returned to regular Mass attendance because of this campaign have expressed gratitude for the interest shown in them since this promotion began four years ago, a church spokesman said.

Libson Shop closing

Another downtown store, Libson - Shops, 1321 Eleventh St., will close its doors at the end of January.

Thelma Pyles confirmed today. Mrs. Pyles said she was informed by the Libson Shop's headquarters late last week of the decision to cease operations in the downtown Granite City area.

The manager said she is not yet aware of the reasons for this decision of the company. She has managed the shop here for about nine years. "I think we have had our share of good sales," Mrs. Pyles said.

She said that in the past, the downtown Granite City Libson Shop has been recognized by the company headquarters for its sales record.

The shop, which sells women's clothing and accessories, employs a staff of eight. According to Betty Doehler, an administrator of the Libson Shops headquarters in St. Louis, other area closings are planned, but she did not comment on the extent of the those closings.

The Libson Shops are a St. Louis-based operation with about 29 outlets in the area.

Last month, Carpa's Department Store announced its would also be leaving the downtown area at the end of January, or sooner.

Concern on scrapping of rail tracks

Quadrantians are concerned about the latest round of rail abandonments planned by the Consolidated Rail Corporation (Conrail), a federally aided freight service.

More than 300 miles of track would be abandoned in Illinois under seven applications filed last week with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington.

The lines selected for abandonment include 143 miles between Lawrenceville and Cairo and 145 miles between Paris and Granite City.

Such railroad facilities are used extensively to ship farm products, particularly grain, much of which travels to and through the local community.

There is considerable displeasure with an assertion that Conrail is interested in selling the track to new owners, since it might be more profitable to Conrail just to sell the rails as scrap metal.

It is contended here that the lines are of great value and that shipping routes might be altered drastically, at a great economic loss, unless the rails are sold to groups that would keep them in use.

THEFT OF TOW BARS

Cables were cut and removed and five tow bars stolen from racks at the side of the Ralph's Texaco, 2200 Madison Ave., it was reported 9:55 a.m. Friday. Value of the items was set at $1,125.

ALARM COMPANY OPENS. A ribbon is cut outside the Mississippi Valley Alarm Co. last week opening the firm. The company is located at 2600 Madison Ave., behind Crews Liquors. From left, Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Cameron, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Shirley Adams of the Chamber; Nina Limbaugh of the Chamber; George Crews, sales manager of the firm, and his wife, Judy (in front); Karen and Jeff Gravelle, owner of the alarm company; Eugene Aiasa of the Chamber (partially hidden); Dave Knollman, president of the Chamber, and Harold Bellingier, a Chamber member.

OPENING TUESDAY. Two workers prepare for the opening of Treasure House III, a non-profit thrift shop operated by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission on Tuesday, Dec. 8. At left is Ella Miller of Granite City organizing hanging clothes as Velma Sham-bro of Venice stacks other clothing articles by size. The Treasure House is located at 1316 Madison Ave. and serves the Quad-City area. The shop is designed to benefit the less fortunate, incapacitated and elderly of the area with limited incomes.

Holiday receptions at facility

Mental Health Services, Southern Madison County, Inc., will hold holiday receptions at all three of its facilities to express thanks to organizations and individuals who have supported the agency in the past.

The holiday receptions will be held Dec. 17 at the Quad-City facility, 2024 State St., Granite City, at 4 p.m.; Dec. 17 at the Edwardsville office located at 115 S. Main St., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.; and Dec. 21 at the Highland facility, 508 Broadway, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Mental Health Services is a private, not-for-profit organization that serves all of the southern half of Madison County.

Information about the receptions is available from Jan. 5, Mayberry, 2024 State St., 637-4422.

TWENTY FAMILIES of the Tri-City area will enjoy breakfast out during this Christmas season through the cooperation of the Granite City International House of Pancakes and the Tri-Cities Area United Way. J. "Doc" Watson, left, the IHOP manager, presents 20 certificates for the meals to George Cook, director of AFL-CIO Community Services, an agency of the United Way. The certificates will be distributed to families in the Anchorage and Kirkpatrick Homes in Granite City, Lee Wright, Homes in Venice and the Garasche and Grenzer Homes in Madison.

North Christmas concert Thursday

The Granite City High School North Vocal Music Department will present its annual Christmas Concert on Thursday, Dec. 10, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Choral works, solos, trios and quartets will be presented by students from the various choruses.

The Advanced Mixed Chorus will present "The Christmas Story" a medley of traditional carols depicting the birth of Christ. The Contando will sing "Quickly Run the Shepherds," "Beautiful Savior," "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head," and "Calyso for Christmas." The Mixed Chorus will perform "Carol, Brother, Carol," "Mary Had a Baby," "Good King

Wenceslas," and "Silver Bells."

The Girl's Glee Club will sing "Do You Hear What I Hear?" "Lo, Now a Rose Is Blooming," "Carol of the Drum," and "Pine Cones and Holly Berries." The Madrigals will sing "Carol of the Bells," "As Lately We Watched," "Laudate Dominum," and "Sleigh Ride."

Soloists for the evening are Tina Goucher singing "What Child is This?" "Maria, Maria," "Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire," Jason Durett performing "I'll Be Home for Christmas," and Scott Moran performing the solo to "Laudate Dominum."

The trio, "Here Comes

Santa Claus," will be sung by Angela Ashcraft, Patricia Atkinson, and Ruth Johnson, and the quartet of "O Holy Night" will be presented by Susan Beasley, Angela Ashcraft, Dan Whitsell, and Jerry Shane.

The narrator for "The Christmas Story" will be Sheila Roseman and the accompanists for the concert are Kim Fountain and Lori Richardson. Mrs. Gail E. Mueller is the "Choral Director."

Tickets may be purchased from any vocal music student. The cost is 50-cents for students and 75-cents for adults. The public is being invited.

DEMO CLUB EVENT

The Granite City Democratic Club will hold a combination meeting and Christmas party Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 2052 Edison Ave. The public is being invited.

Senior volunteers are praised at White House

President Ronald Reagan has told members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), the largest federal volunteer program, that his administration will seek the help of volunteers in building a stronger national economy.

"Among the things we are going to do to restore this economy is to form a task force throughout the country to mobilize volunteerism through the private sector," Reagan said.

The president explained that the mobilization will allow volunteer programs, like RSVP, to "take up the slack" in programs to be cut from the federal government.

"The idea of volunteerism is meaningful to this administration," Reagan told the senior volunteers who were invited recently to the White House to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the RSVP program.

Fifty-three volunteers, representing the 50 states, Puerto Rico, Guam and the District of Columbia, were in Washington as representatives of the 320,000 RSVP volunteers currently serving nationwide. RSVP, a part of ACTION, the federal agency for volunteer service programs, was established in 1971 to provide a variety of opportunities for persons 60 years of age or older to participate more actively in community services.

Following the 10th anniversary ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, the volunteers were honored at a lunch of Capitol Hill, where congressmen and senators commended RSVP for its decade of service.

Senator Jennings Randolph (D-W.Va.) described RSVP as the most phenomenal success story of any volunteer program. "You touch the hearts of many people with your gentleness, your skill and your compassion," he said.

Sen. John Heinz (R-Pa.) said older Americans are among "the most capable and underutilized resources" in a nation that will have even greater needs for their services in coming years, Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) said RSVP has helped ease the burdens for countless Americans. "I commend the RSVP for making lighter and better the lives of so many people," he said.

In addition to RSVP, ACTION also administers the Foster Grandparent and Senior Companion programs, VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), and the National Center for Service Learning. The Peace Corps is an autonomous part of ACTION.

Information on ACTION programs is available by calling 1-800-424-6590, extension 93, toll-free, or writing ACTION, Washington, D.C. 20525.

MAN CHARGED WITH HAVING REVOLVER

Theodore R. Pritchett, 76, of 2326 W. 23rd St., was halted by police while driving at W. 21st Street and Bryan Avenue at 10:50 a.m. Thursday on a charge of unlawful use of a weapon. Officers alleged that an unloaded .38-caliber revolver was under a seat of the auto.

Police had been told that Pritchett displayed a gun in his belt while at an auto sale lot at Niedringhaus Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard 20 minutes earlier. It was alleged that he voiced a threat against an employee who was not there at the time. Pritchett was released on cash bail at 12:20 p.m. Thursday.

GED classes are offered

Free GED (General Education Development) classes will be offered at the Belleville Area College Granite City extension in the spring 1982 semester.

Students take the classes in preparation for the GED high school equivalency exam.

Registration will be at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 12, at the Granite City High School South auditorium, 3101 Madison Ave. Registration takes two hours, as a test is given to determine the reading level of the student.

Information is available at the BAC basic education office, 235-2700, ext. 323.

Classes to be offered are:

- GED English, reading and Constitution, 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. Tuesday.
- GED review of mathematics, 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. Thursday.
- English as a second language (first eight weeks), 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.
- English as a second language (second eight weeks), 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

$5.00 Rebate On The Daisy 717

It's the gun that beat the big shots. The single pump pneumatic 717 pistol beat the expensive imports at the 1980 California air gun championships. It has the look and feel of an expensive gun at a much lower price. And now you can get a Daisy 717 for even less. Pick up your special $5 rebate coupon when you pick up a Daisy 717.
